DAVID B. HILL,

The Gallant Democratic Governor of New York.

RECEIVES A VIRGINIA WELCOME. Amid Popular Cheers and the Boom

ing of Cannon,

HE IS RECEIVED IN VIRGINIA'S CAPITAL.

Democrat of the Day. RICHMOND, Va., October 19 .- [Special.]-Governor David B. Hill, of New York, spent today in Richmond, as the honored guest of the Powhatan Club, and of the Richmond democracy in general. He entered the city early this morning amid salutes of artillery, and as he departed late tonight by a special train, the welkin rang with cheers from hundreds of throats who wished him a pleasant trip. His reception was enthusiastic, and his entertainment handsome, cordial and spontaneous, and, although he was the special guest of the club, doing him honor. Perhaps Richmond never had within her hospitable borders a great man who received so much attention in so short a time.

There was not a moment during the day that the entertainment committee were not assiduous in their efforts to make the governor's visit a pleasant one.

The Day's Programme. The day's programme, after the reception of the guests, embraced a carriage drive in which many other places, including the white house of the confederacy and the Lee monument, were visited. A reception by Governor McKinney at his office in the capitol, a lunch by the mayor, a dinner at Murphy's hotel, at which covers were laid for forty, a tremendous mass meeting at the academy tonight, at which speeches were made by Governors McKinney and Hill, Senator Voorbees, General Slocum and Mr. Clark Howell, of Atlanta, and a reception from 10 to 11 o'clock at the gubernatorial mansion were included in the reception tendered the distinguished party.

The procession from the clubhouse to the academy tonight was half a mile long. The First Virginia regiment acted as a military escort, and the streets were ablaze with colored lights. The demonstration was an Drawn by Four White Horses. He was hurried off by the reception com mittee to the carriage provided especially for him. This was drawn by four white horses. With Mr. Hill rode Mr. Belvin Senator Voorhees, of Indiana, and General Slocum. While the procession was on its way to Murphy's hotel the Howitzers fired a salute of several guns in the capitol square. Among those in waiting at the hotel were Mayor Ellyson, Colonel John B. Purcell, Captain J. K. English, Messrs. John A. Curtis, B. A. Auguston, John W. Wilkes, W. D. Chesterman and W. H.

The Meeting of Last Night. The crowning event was the public meeting tonight at the academy, which never befor held as many people or as much enthusiasm. The house was crowded from pit to dome within ten minutes after the doors opened, and great cheers greeted the appearance of Messrs. Hill, McKinney and Belvin, who sat to the front of a hundred or more prominent people on the stage, which was beautifully decorated, and represented a garden scane. Among those on the rostrum were: Hon. court, and ex-Postmaster Cullingsworth, Colonel Frank G. Ruffin, Professor Duryear, Judges Leake, Wellford and Witt, M. D. Chesteman, W. G. Waller and William Ryan, managing editors of The Dispatch and Times. and State, respectively, Congressman George D. Wise, ex-Congressman Venable, J. C. Murray, editor Norfolk Landmark, Rev. Drs.
Cooper and Dickinson, and State Treasurer A.

President Belvin presided, and presented Governor McKinney, who introduced Governor Hill. In his speech, Virginia's executive of his distinguished friend; so I say there is no political significance in his being here; but he had so many friends in the city of Richmond who desire to see him, that he was interrupted by the Powhatan Club; hence we have captured him and brought him here tonight so that you could see the man who is a democrat—[ap-plainse]—a democrat who has never been false to his party. It is not to be denied that the air is full of politics. It is here in the old common-wealth of Virginia. Thank God, the republican dead, and we hope there will be no resur-and no man will ever roll a stone from the give cordial support to the nominee for president next year, and referring to Voorhees and Gorman and Lewellen upon the work of the latter in opposing the force bill, Governor Mc-

Kinney continued:
But, if they chose not to nominate Gorman, but go to the north and select for the third time Grover Cleveland for the third time Grover Cleveland—[tremendous applause]—we look at his administration, one of the finest administrations that has ever been given to us in the last half century. Conservative democrats in Virginia and through the south would hail his nomination with delight. But if they do not choose to nominate him, there is another man.—[cries and cheers for Hill]—there is another man. my friends, at whose hands the democratic party never knew defeat. The people among whom he lives, the state in which he has been honored so often by those who love to honor him because they have confidence in his democracy; if he is nominated, he will receive the vote. You will not mistake the name. He sits before us here—David B. Hill. With pleasure, my fellow citizens, I present to you the distinguished governor of New York, David B. Hill. [Cheers.]

Governor Hill Introduced. It was several seconds before Mr. Belvin could restore quiet. Governor Hill said: I thank you for this very kind and flattering reception. I accept it, not so much as a personal compliment to myself, but as your tribute of respect to the great Empire State of New York, which I have the honor in part to represent on which i have the honor in pair represent this occasion. Possibly you may intend it also for a compliment for the gallant democracy of that state, whom I also in part represent tonight. I am here as the guest of the citizens of Richmond, and particularly of this gallant democaatic club who escorted me here tonight.

Mr. Hill spoke nearly an hour, and devoted his attention chiefly to a discussion of the Jeffersonian principles of democracy, the force bill and the tariff. On the first point, after referring to Virginia's past history, he said: I am pleased especially to speak in the state that gave to the country the founder of the great party to which I think a majority of this audi belongs. It was Jefferson, as you all know, who founded the great democratic party of the country. His name will live longer than many of those who have given distinguished services to our country; longer, in my judgment—and in that respect I differ from our friend, Mr. Depew, of New York, who said the fame of Hamilton would survive that of Jefferson in the years and centuries which are to come. While I do not speak disparagingly of the fame of the great Hamilton of my own state, in my humble judg-ment, the name of Jefferson will live when that of Hamilton shall be forgotton. The democratic party, my friends, is the party of the people. Our cause is, and always has been, the cause of the people. [Applause.] We have had occasion for the past several years to examine the measures which have been proposed by the adversaries of the democratic party. We stand upon the broad doctrine which has been enunciated that taxation doctrine which has been enunciated that taxation shall be for public purposes, and therefore the democratic iparty believes that no more revenues should be collected in this country than are necessary for the support of the government economically administered. This is a familiar doctrine to us all and it is because we stand upon that principle that we are opposed to the measures which have been imposed upon us by the republican congress which are in derogation of this principle. [We are opposed to the growth of monopolies. We are in favor of individual liberty for the citizens. We stand where we have always stood upon the ground that the people of each state should regulate their domestic affairs in their own way—[applause]—without interference by the general government.

His Trip to Atlanta.

Refering to the mission of his trip south the I am here passing through your city, as has been Tain here passing through your cry, as has censtated, on my way to speak on Wednesday at the unveiling of the statue of the lamented Henry W. Grady. [Applause.] Although I regretted to leave my own state at this period of the cauvass, yet I Governor H. Ago aid this was his second visit to Richmod. In 1871, while a member of the New York assembly, he visited this city with a press association, of which he was an honorary member. He was then quite a young man, being the youngest member of the assembly at that time. Governor Hill said he would return to New York directly he could get away from Atlanta. He would like to stop a day or two at Monticello, but he doesn't think he can do so, as he is anxious to re-enter the canvass in his state.

There was quite a crowd at the Byrd street station to greet the distinguished company. Governor Hill was the first one of the party to step from the coach. As he appeared in sight the crowd cheered him vociferously. He acknowledged the honor by courteous bow.

Drawn by Four White Horses. I also came here, he said further on, for the purpose of stating to you that we are engaged in a heated cumpaign in the Empire State. I am here to bring a good word. We propose to keep that state in the democratic column. Our party there is united, bold and aggressive, and, with excellent candidates upon our ticket, headed by one who is known at least by reputation, Hon. Roswell P. Flower-[applause]—we expect confidently to win the fight, and elect him by a good round majority.

dently to win the hight, and elect him by a good round majority.

The governor closed with a brief discussion of the important bearing of this year's election on the presidential contest and heartily thanked the club and the people for the hearty reception tendered him. At his conclusion the governor was presented with a magnificent floral tomahawk as a token from the Paw-

Speaker Howell's Speech. Mr. Howell, speaker of the Georgia house of representatives, made the closing address. He ommenced by saying that the call from the audience was the first intimation that he had that he would be expected to speak. He had only arrived in the city at 7 o'clock, and was mediately ushered into the presence of a lot of gentlemen who were dressed in swallowtailed coats. He had started away from home leaving two persons in his family, when he was called back, and found three. tion had been asked why a northern man had been invited to speak at the unveiling of the Grady statue. Henry Grady's last effort was one of thankfulness over a reunited people. The people wanted to bring an orator south who could speak for the north in the south as Grady spoke for the south as south in the north. There were some men, said Mr. Howell, who could not There speak in the south for the north, and some men in the south who could not speak in the orth for the south, but they would put out the fires of fraternity. Mr. Howell's speech was liberally applauded.

The speeches of Messrs. Voorhees, Slocum and Howell were brief and timely. The recep tion at the executive mansion lasted until 11 o'clock, when the New York party left for Atlanta, where they will arrive at 4 p. m. tomorrow. Dan Voorhees Is Coming,

RICHMOND, Va., October 19 .- [Special.]-Voorhees left here for Atlanta with Governor Hill, of whose party he is a member. He makes the trip by invitation of Governor Hill, who met him in New York, where the senator was on business.

To Charley Northen Belongs the Honor The Associated Press, in telling of the de parture of Governor Hill from Albany, made a mess of it. It represents the Grady delega-tion as being headed by General John B. Gordon. This was a ridiculous error, as General Gordon was neither with the party, nor has he been near it, nor, so far as known, has he ever shown any interest in the memory of Mr. Grady. The delegation was headed by Colonel Charles S. Northen, who did his duty nobly and well, and who is doing the honors After giving assurance that Virginia will of the trip with a grace no one could excel.

THE CITY GONE WILD!

Meeting Ever Known in Cincinnati.

AN OVATION NEVER EQUALED! The City Turns Out En Masse and

Greets Their Standard Bearer. JUDGE CRISP, OF GEORGIA, SPEAKS

To Seven Thousand Enthusiastic Demo crats in Music Hall-The Square Packed with People.

CINCINNATI, October 19 .- [Special.]-The neeting of Governor Campbell in this city tonight was the largest political demonstration ever seen in Cincinnati.

The most enthusiastic democrats had no anticipation of such an outpouring. There was a cold, drizzling rain falling all day, and it was feared that the parade of the democratic clubs would have to be abandoned, but despite the weather the street display was very large, and the utmost enthusiasm was shown all along the line of merch. Music hall, which holds 7,000 people, was packed to the doors an hour before the marching clubs began to arrive. The street front of the hall for a whole square was densely packed, and many prominent citizens who had seats for the stage, could not get near the doors.

The Campbells Are Coming. The welcome of Governor Campbell w most remarkable one. When he entered the hall as the band played "The Campbells Are Coming." the vast crowd arose and cheered for fully five minutes. The speaking did not begin until after half-past 9 o'clock.

R. B. Bowler, chairman of the democratic county committee, introduced Hon. W. S. Groezbeck, as chairman of the meeting. He only spoke a moment and then intro duced Judge Crisp, of Georgia. The judge said that when he came to Ohio, he had been told that Campbell was strong in the country, but weak in the cities, but this wonderful demonstration showed that he certainly had a multitude of friends in Cincinnati.

Campbell Is Strong Everywhere Judge Crisp said that on account of the great crowd outside, he and Governor Campbell would alternate in addressing the two

The governor left the hall and spoke to the outside crowd while Judge Crisp cotertained those in the hall. He made a very strong speech, going over the democratic principles briefly.

Governor Campbell spoke about five minutes in the open air and then returned to the hall.

Judge Crisp is one of the most eloquent men ever listened to in Cincinnati, and made such a fine impression that the county committee will make a request that he speak here again before the campaign closes.

Wild with Enthusiasm When Governor Campbell stood up before the immense audience it seemed as though pandemonium had broken loose. Seven thousand people were on their feet, and 7,000 voices were shouting for Campbell, while half a dozen bands played "The Campbells Are Coming." It was fully ten minutes before order was restored, and then the gallant democratic standard-bearer, after thanking the people of Cincinnati for this magnificent demonstration, discussed the campaign issues in a speech of about an hour. He was frequently aker meeting at the same place last Saturday night. The democrats are correspondingly jubilant, and will pursue the canvass with greater vigor than ever. It is conceded on all sides that the honor shown Campbell tonight in this city, where it was supposed to be weaker than anywhere in the state, shows that he is going to not only poll the full democratic vote, but will get thousands of republicans. He is growing in favor every day, and some of the men who were the bitterest against him a month ago are now his most enthusiastic supporters. THE REPUBLICANS GETTING TIRED.

An Organization Will Be Formed to Stop

PROVIDENCE, R. I., October 19 .- A new organization is to be formed here at once, the primary object of which is to put a stop to fraudulent and questionable pensions, and to expose those that have already been granted. The promoters of the new order will style themselves the Old Guard. They are prominently identified with the grand jury, and some are high officials in the grand encampment of the state. All are republicans.

Charleston's Election Today. CHARLESTON, S. C., October 19.—[Special.] Things are red-hot tonight. Reformers and regulars are already camping at the polis, and the election tomorrow will be as lively as it used to be when Sambo had a finger in the pie. The contest between the two factions of the democracy is very bitter, and lots of bad blood has been engendered. It is not improbable that come of it may be let out tomorrow. A strong some of it may be let out tomorrow. A strong force of police will be stationed at the polls with orders, however, not to interfere except on a breach of the peace.

They Have Sent in Their Resignation They Have Sent in Their Resignation.
OTTAWA, Ont., October 19.—It is stated in reliable quarters that Premier Abbott holds in his hands the resignation of every member of his cabinet, his ministers having tendered their portfolios to the premier in view of the contemplated reconstruction of his ministry. All he has now to do is 1.0 accept any one of these resignations when he wishes to make room for new blood in his government. This is following a precedent set by the colleagues of the late Sir John Macdonald, who, as a matter of courtesy, tendered on more than one co-casion, to the late premier their resignations when a reconstruction was contemplated.

day's session of the ecumenical Methodist council was opened with William Warden, of the Wesleyan Reform Union, of England, in the chair. The secretary acknowledged receipt of resolutions offered by delegates concerning civil liberty and impartial power of the papacy, and on the subject of combinations of labor and capitol. They were referred to the business committee. The business committee made a report upon the subject of a week of prayer, recommending that the week beginning ovember 15th, next, be set aside for that purpose, and inviting all of the senior bishops and presidents of the conferences represented in the council to sign a call to all Methodists The report was adopted after a statement by Dr. King that eastern delegates had taken the action as that proposed before coming to the conference. Some Methodist Statistics.

Through Mr. McLaren the committee on Methodist statistics made a report which, in substance, states that the returns had been obtained from all the churches represented in the conference and tabulated, first geographic ally, and second ecclesiastically. The term "Adherents" was included in every case ministers and members as well as families connected with congregations. In some cases estimates were made, but in no case do they exceed tigures given in the government cen suses, and in some cases they are below.

While no official statistics were adopted by the London conference the figures show that since that in the conference there has been an increase of 30 per cent in the Methodist believers. Some of the details of the report were read by the Rev. Dr. Morley as follows:

The report which was, as explained, not quite complete, was criticized by several members; Dr. Turner, of England, holding that it would, if adopted, vitilate the returns in England.

Dr. Hamilton presented a report of the committee on an executive commission. Mr. Atkinson, of England, did not relish the minority representation accorded to the WASHINGTON, October 19 .- [Special.]-The old thread bare rumor that General Raum, commissioner of pensions, has resigned, is fly-ing about again tonight, but, as usual, is received by Raum with an emphatic denial.

There is no doubt, however, that Raum is slated to go, and that his retirement is only deferred until after the November elections to save the republicans the embarrassment of having to explain the old pension office scandals in the face of the pending campaigns.

It is generally believed here that the presiand that he will be ex-Congressman Steele, of Indiana, who is now the governor of the new territory of Oklahoma. WASHINGTON, October 19.—The United States supreme court today denied the motions to advance the Virginia coupon tax cases.
The supreme court advanced and assigned for argument the first Monday in December the cases of the two murderers to be executed in New York by means of electricity. The two men are Nicoia Trezzia and James McElvine. The former was sentenced for the murder of a fellow Italian named Salvana, and the latter for the murder of a Brooklyn grocer, named Lucca.

The court also advanced the cases of the anarchists, Fielder and Solwab, who are now in the penitentiary in Illinois for complicity in the famous Haymarket riot in Chicago. The cases of the anarchists will come up for hearing immediately after the conclusion of the argument in the two New York electrocution

THE SHIP BUILDERS FAIL. Harrison, Loring & Co., of Boston, Fail to Carry Out Their Contracts.

Harrison, Loring & Co., of Boston, Fall to Carry Out. Their Contracts.

Washington, October 19.—The navy department has been informed of the failure of Harrison, Loring & Co., ship builders, at Boston, who have contracts for the construction of the armored cruiser No. 11, at $674.000, with a premium for speed, and three steel tugboate at $32,500 each, but as yet has not determined its course in the matter. The cruiser, is about half finished.

It is said at the department that the government is amply protected by the bond of the contractors, which is more than sufficient to insure the completion of the vessels. The only question to be determined is as to whether this shall be done by the government or by the assignees. The latter course is the most probable one.

It is also stated at the department that there has been no delay whatever in the matter of the payments to Harrison, Loring & Co., and that all their applications for payments have been promptly honored so far as the progress of the work performed justified. The real cause of the faiture is thought to lay in the fact that they undertook to perform naval work at too low a price.

THE FLORIDA FARMERS

Will Meet in Convention at Dade City. The Ocala Platform Will Fe Endorsed. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., October 19.—The Florida Farmers' Alliance will meet in annual session at Dade City tomorrow. Nearly three hundred dele-gates will be in attendance. The principal topics to be discussed are the subtreasury bill and the adoption of a resolution committing alliancemen to the support of only alliance candidates at the next state election—which would mean a third next state election—which would mean a third party in this state. President Rogers declines a re-election, and there is an active canvass for his position by at let t half a dozen aspirants. It is thought that the election to the reliency of the altiance will have much to us with the nomination for governor by the democratic party in the spring. It is predicted tonight that the convention will endorse the Ocala platform (with the subtreasury bill), by a vote of 3 to 1, but that the third party resolution will be killed.

FREE MAIL DELIVERY

For the Farmer Will Be Before the Next Congress.

WANAMAKER ENDORSES THE SCHEME

In a Letter on the Subject to The American Agriculturalist.

THE INCREASE OF THE REVENUE

Will More Than Pay All Expenses Arising from Free Delivery in Farm-ing Districts.

NEW YORK, October 19.-An organized effort is undy way among the farmers to secure from congress free mail delivery in country towns. The Farmers' Alliance, the Patrons of Husbandry and other orders are canvassing the matter. Letters are being written to the congressmen in favor of the project, and petitions to congress for free delivery are being circulated in many parts of the country. The farmers assert that the daily mail delivery at their door wil add perceptibly to the money value of their farms, and will be worth still more because it will keep them in touch with the markets and outside world, and rob farm life of its isolation nd monotony. The farmers are writing to the agricultural press that this convenience would enable them quite generally to take the daily papers, as well as to subscribe for local papers more liberally.

In The American Agriculturalist for November, Postmaster General Wanamaker states by the postoffice department for free delivery in the farming districts show that the increase of revenue more than pays all increased expense. He believes that universal free delivery would, therefore, be self-sustaining.

THE CONDUCT OF UNITED STATES OFFICERS. Report from Valpariaso Concerning Their

Action in the Late Chilean War. London, October 19 .- A dispatch from Valpariaso says that evidence from neutral sources confirms the statement made that the United States squadron in Chilean waters, both in words and in deeds, displayed enmity towards the congressional navy during the recent civil war in Chile.

The Report Discredited in Washington. WASHINGTON, October 19.—The report from London that the United States naval squadron in Chilean waters displayed enmity to the congressional navy during the recent war in that country, is wholly discredited at the navy de-partment. One of the officers of the highest rank said he had positive information that while Admiral Broun, who commanded the squadron, was compelled to pursue a neutral course during the struggle, his personal sympa-thies and convictions were altogether with the convressionalists.

The Storm Continues LONDON, October 19.—There seems to be no end to the terribly severe weather which has prevailed, almost without interruption, for about a week. The Dublin mail packet from Holyhead arrived at Kingston landing place for Dublin five hours late. Governor Northen and Mayor Hemphill Welcome the Visitors-Address of Pleasant A. Stovall.

The Piedmont exposition of 1891 opened yesterday in the most auspicious manner. Amid the booming of cannon, the waving of flags and handkerchiefs, the cheers of 10,000 delighted people, the machinery was started, the gates were thrown open and the great exposition was formally declared

The smiles of heaven seem to rest upor the enterprise. The bright rays of the sun fell upon the forest, yellowed by autumn, and the October breezes rustled the leaves. It was, indeed, an auspicious day for the opening of the exposition.

For opening day the attendance was very large. Actuated by the true Atlanta spirit, a large number of her representative men had laid down their work for the day, and gone out to the exposition to see it started off with a boom.

The programme that had been arranged for the day was excellent in every feature. The first address was made by Mayor Hemphill, then came Governor Northen, who was followed by Colonel Pleasant A.

Stovall, the orator of the day. Then the great exposition was declared open, amid enthusiastic cheering.

The Procession.

The procession, under command of Captain Henry Jackson, the marshal of the day, left the city exactly at 1:03 o'clock.

At 11:30 o'clock in the morning the Fourth Artillery band stationed itself at the artesian well, and played several airs. A crowd was quickly attracted, which lined the sidewalks for two blocks on every side. Pretty soon the Gate City Guard arrived and took up their position in front of Folsom's restaurant. The were closely followed by the Atlanta Zouaves. who stationed themselves alongside th Guard. In a few minutes the warlike Atlanta Artillery arrived and drewjup between Broad and Forsyth streets. Next came the battalion of police, under command of Chie The four companies were headed Connolly. by Captains Wright, Thompson, Manly and Acting Captain Osburn. They came to a rest on Marietta street, just opposite the artesian well, and presented a very soldierly appearance with their brightly polished guns and neat new uniforms.

The next company to arrive was the Gov ernor's Herse Guards, who were assigned to the rear of the procession. With the arrival of the handsomely uniformed Grady Cadets, which took its position next to the Gate City Guard, the procession was complete.

The Fourth Artillery band was at the head of the procession, and just behind it marched the battalion of policemen. Then came Cap-tain Jackson and aides. Following them was the Fourth battalion of infantry-the Atlanta Zonaves, Gate City Guard, Atlanta Rifles and Grady Cadets in the order named-in command of Colonel W. L. Calhoun.

Then the Atlanta Artillery, under command of Captain George B. Forbes. Next was the Governor's Horse Guards, under John A. Miller.

Following the military came the carriages. with the orators of the day, Mayor Hemphill, Governor Northen the chaplain, the city council, officers and directors of the exposi-

In the first carriage were Colonel Pleasant A. Stovall, orator of the day; Governor Northen, Dr. J. W. Lee and Vice President Graves. In the second carriage were Mayor Hemphill and Dr. H. C. Morrison. In the carriages that followed was the city council, and following them were the directors and officers of the exposition.

The procession was formed by 12:30 o'clock, but the hour appointed for starting was 1 p'clock.

The sidewalks for several blocks around were densely packed with people eager to see the great parade move off to open the Piedat exposition.

At three minutes past 1 o'clock Marshal of the Day Jackson gave the order for the procession to start, and as if moved by one step the long line of military marched down Marietta and turned up Peachtree street. The Fourth Artillery band, heading the procession, played a lively march.

The long line of military on horseback and on foot, followed by the carriages, presented an inspiring sight as they moved up Peach-

Within the Gate.

When the procession had reached the gates of the main entrance a vast assemblage was there congregated to view it.

As the procession entered the grounds a salute from several heavy pieces was fired by a detachment of the Atlanta Ar tillery. As the roaring sounds of the great guns echoed from the magnificient exhibition hall thousands of enthusiastic voices penetrated the air in honor of the opening of the greatest industrial, mechanical and agricultural exhibition that has ever marked the history of the central south.

The procession drove around the entire grounds twice, followed by an immense concourse of people. At intervals loud cheers ascended the air from the large crowd that followed the great galaxy of carriages, military ounted and on foot, and the teams tha drew the artillery pieces.

On the Speaker's Stand. The procession halted in front of the grand stand, where special arrangements had been prepared for the speakers.

When the speakers, directors and officers of the exposition company and the invited guests had been seated in the seats reserved for their occupancy, and the majority of the crowd had found comfortable seats in the spa cious grand stand, Hon. John Temple Graves, who is an active director and vice president of the exposition company, and who was master of ceremonies, announced that prayer would be offered by Rev. Dr. Morrison.

Every hat was raised, and not a sound could be heard but that reverend gentleman's voice. Dr. Morrison prayed with great earnestness and eloquence. He invoked with eloquent sincerity the blessings of Almighty God on those in charge of the great exposition, and all those who leave their homes to visit it. He offered thanks for the success that has attended the efforts of the gentlemen who have been engaged in the preparation of the grand

Mr. Graves, in his own eloquent and inimitable style, reviewed the great work that the preparation of the great exposition had required, and the phenomenal success that has attended the efforts of those engaged in it. He also spoke briefly of the gentlemen who had been selected as orators for the day. Mr. Graves closed by introducing to the audience Hon. W. A. Hemphill, mayor of Atlanta, who delivered the address of welcome.

Mayor Hemphill's Welcome. "The fates," said Mayor Hemphill, "are propitious today. When the golden sun gilded he hilltons this morning, the happiest men in Atlanta were the president and directors of the Piedmont exposition, including my friend Sandford Cohen. We are all enjoying this bright October day.

"Permit me to boast of Atlanta a little. She never does anything by halves. When it comes to expositions Atlanta is at home. Every exposition held here has been a grand one. These gentlemen have searched air, earth and water to get things to amuse and instruct you. It has been said that this is a private enterprise. I deny it. It is a public enterprise and one from which Atlanta and the south will reap great benefit. "We have, most of us, read the pretty story of the visit of the queen of Sheba to Solomon She went bearing gifts of gold, silver, frank incense and myrrh. She beheld the glory of it all and said 'the half has not been told.' have heard much of our great exposition, but the half has not been told. King Solomon is here in all his glory and the uncrowned kings and queens are coming to see him, not with trains of camels, but in luxurious railroad cars. I don't think they will be disappointed or find it all objectionable. We invite all to come and see and enjoy this great exposition.'

Governor Northen. Governor Northen was then introduced by Mr. Graves. On behalf of the great state of Georgia, the governor welcomed the visitors to the exposition to Atlanta, the capital and principal city. He reviewed the great benefits to the whole state that will follow the grand exhibitions of her matchless resources now displayed at the Piedmont exposition. He spoke of the kind and generous assistance that had been offered and rendered to the exposition company by every portion of the state. With enthusiasm and pride he recounted the great variety and diversity of the exhibits now displayed, and that they will redound with eternal credit to the greatness of the Empire State of the south. and the enterprise, pluck and progress of her citizenship, and to all classes, especially the farmers would be greatly benefited by the exposition, as they had from similar ones before.

Stovall's Speech Mr. Pleasant A. Stovall, the orator of the day, was then introduced by Mr. Graves, and spoke as follows: Ladies and Gentlemen: I have been very kindly spoken of as the orator of the day, but among such orators as have just preceded me I must admit that I have no claims to that title. I have admit that I have no claims to that title. I have just come from a community white with the fever heat of an expesition. The atmosphere is entirely congenial to me, for every man in my own home wears an exposition sticker somewhere on his person, and very many of the women, in spite of the boycott of the pulpit, fly the forbidden colors of the kirmess. [Laughter.] It occurs to me in this connection that Atlanta is largely responsible for the growth of the exposition. Her cotton display in 1881, which first opened the eyes of this state to our possibilities as an industrial community, and the success of the Piedmont exposition in 1887, which emphasized the remarkable progress that Georgia had made, havestimulated the enterprise and energy of every city and town and developed a series of county fairs, until it seems that the whole state during the months of October and November is a mass of streaming flags, grinding wheels and speeding horses.

I serve upon you notice that some of your com I serve upon you notice that some of your competitors are pressing you close in the number and size of their attractions, but you have only yourselves to blame, for the high standard fixed by Atlanta has been productive of unusual excelence. The wonderful success of the Georgia exposition has had much to do with the great revival in industrial affairs. This Georgia cracker of ours who aided in perfecting the arrangement of the steamboat, who inspired the origin of the cotton gin, who built up large cities and dugjout his canals, today leads the union in railroad construction and spins more General Sherman cut a swath fifty miles wide and 300 miles long right in the heart and home of the Georgia cracker. One hundred millions of property was swept away in cight months: today our taxable property reaches $400,000,000, an incress of $50,000,000 in ten years. Iron and coal and granite are quarried from the monutains where Sherman and Johnston struggled for the mastery, and railroads which have given us Cordele, Americus and Brunswick have eradicated the last evidences and Brunswick have eradicated the last evidence work with than Georgia from pillage and devastation. While if this grand old state of ours had given no other evidence of her recuperative power than the city of Atlanta—Atlanta with her crowded streets and driving trade and handsome homes—Atlanta, the just pride of every Georgian—I say had Georgia given no other evidence than this she would still be worthy of the claim of "the Empire State of the south."

Perhaps it is not too much to say that Georgia is one of the few states where such an exposition could be held. I mean an exposition combining so many evidences of manufacturing and such noble specimens of agricultural growth. It could not be held in New England. In company with a party of Georgia gentemen, recently, I had the privilege of visiting some of the principal cities of New England. We there saw every style of manufacturing—shops where the most delicate screws here made and the nost ponderous Corliss machines turned out. In fact, the ingenuity of man seems to have exhausted itself in the value and number of its products and workmanship. But what shall I say of its farming lands? There begins a dreary picture in the history of New England. The fact that 800 farms have been abandoned in Massachusetts in a few years shows that the pressure of competition in the south fand wet has been too much for the are leaving their barren hillsides and crowding to the cities, selling their meadows and polo grounds and suburban parks, and the old homestead which has been the pride and glory of New Eugland, from which have gone such splendid specimens of thrift and sturdy manhood, where their old New England mother has sent them forthabroad even "as the eagle shakes her fledgings from her back and bids, them seek the glories and dangers of the air," this old homestead itself is fast falling into disuse.

But how is it with us who boast of the growth of our furnaces and factories, whose looms are surpassing, in some styles of goods, the mills of the Merrimac and Fall River? Is it not true that our back country is rich and growing more popusurpassing, in some styles of goods, the mills of the Merrimac and Fall River? Is it not true that our back country is rich and growing more populous every year, our crops becoming heavier with each procession of the seasons? We are growing our own material and raising our own supplies at home. Is it now true that middle Georgia could sustain a section as large as New England? In this state can be found the most symmetrical development, and here can be made the best display of the products of the field, the forest, the mine and the mill. A few weeks ago, I heard President Garden, of the Southern Society of New York, declare that, in time, the south would become not only the agricultural and manufacturing center, but the financial center of this country. This seems to be a sweeping assertion, and yet our expectation and promise justify such a conclusion. What is there to prevent a country, which is fertile in soil and resourceful in products, from becoming a money-making and money-saving section? What is there to prevent a conducting manufactures from becoming strong, self-supporting and wealthy? There seems to be much wisdom in President Garden's statement, and nothing offers in rebuttal except, possibly, the remarkable numerical aid down by Mr. ducting manufactures from becoming strong, self-supporting and wealthy? There seems to be much wisdom in President Garden's statement, and nothing offers in rebuttal except, possibly, the remarkable principle laid down by Mr. Edward Atkinson. This gentleman, in his address before the state board of New Hampshire, two weeks ago, asserted that while other sections of the country enjoyed natural advantages and made their living with little exertion, New England was forced by absence of these resources to rear sturdy and self-supporting men and women, and from this theory ne deduced the remarkable conclusion that the highest civilization existed in those lands where nature had been least bountiful in her gifts. Boston, whose streps and parks had been reclaimed from the sediment of the tide—Boston, with the grip of she east wind on her throat, had become the "Hub of the nations" and New Hampshire, with nothing but the White mountains to her credit, had given birth to Daniel Webster, and had become a marvel of thrift and skill. But Mr. Atkinson has had one or two of his pet theories overthrown in the south. The great Atlanta exposition of '81 convinced him that the south had entered the market of cotton goods to stay, and the residence in Atlanta of a bright and popular member of the Atkinson household shows that whatever may be his theory of this publicist, he does not fear the enervating effect of the southern sun. In fact he seems to have endorsed the words of Chauncey Depew, now urges the young man to go, south in order to escape the ravages of the grip and grow up with the people of God's country. [Loud applause,] I think I can say that we are prospering in spite of disadvantages, in spite of our rich fields and our teening mines, our abundant forests and our genial climate. [Applause,] If this I can say that we are prospering in spite of disadvantages, me spite of our rich fields and our teening mines, our abundant forests and our genial climate. [Applause,] If this I can say that we are prospering in spite of hibit of all will be the specimens of robust and vigorous manhood who crowd here from the country and the country and the recountry and the field—these brainy, self-reliant youths who have so willingly lent a helping hand to make Georgia what she is. I call you to witness that not all the beauties of your art galleries, not the glories of your forests trembling in the vestments of Indian summer, can approach the radiant charms of southern women. (Loud applause.) I call you to witness that had Georgia in the past decade given no nobler specimens to history than Hill and Grady, her annals would still be comparable with those of any other commonwealth in this nation. I call you to witness that if nothing else had proven the vitality of the manhood of Tennessee, Georgia and South Carolina the record of the southern colony in New York today, whose members are leading in every department of that metropolitan center, leading in the ministry, in medicine and law, holding their own in business circles, mastering the problems of finance and transportation, would show that southern men, undeterred by adverse circumstances, in all communities were they dwell, are not only a power and a peer but a pride indeed.

When I think about your exposition, when I mark such wonderful evidences of energy and skill as those displayed in your halls, I can almost understand the ferrid and prophetic words of Senator Hill: "On more than a hundred broader, deeper Tibers we shall rear richer temples, raise ator Hill: "On more than a hundred broader, deeper Tibers we shall rear richer temples, raise loftier towers, found nobler cities, until the world shall learn to respect and fear, and even the Greek to court, honor and obey."

A Perilous Walk.

Professor Achille Phillion is a veritable wonder. His perilous feat in standing upon a big ball and relling it from the base to the summit of the spiral tower evoked unbounded enthusiasm among the spectators. They held their breath as they looked on in wonder. Some of the ladies hid their faces, fearing that the in trepid performer might make a misstep, which yould precipitate him to the ground slightest miscalculation would have been fatal. Just how the professor accomplished his ascent and descent standing on the large sphere is not known. The ball was rolling all his weight upon it, the trained mus his powerful legs moving it hither and thither and keeping it safely upon the plank. The spiral tower stands to the right of King Solo-mon's temple, in full view of those on the grand stand. From every seat an unob-structed view is had. For half an hour or more Professor Phillion entertained the spectators, and they all declared it was a rare entertainment. It is bound to prove a very attractive feature. Every day the performance will be repeated twice a day. The directors certainly made a ten-strike in securing this daring performer.

A Daring Ride.

As soon as the professor had concluded his performance, four horses dashed before the grand stand. The fiery steeds were unbridled, nor were saddles on their backs. They were in pairs, coupled together by roins. Upon the backs of these horses the riders stood, and onward they dashed around the track. The horses were blooded and possessed great speed. The daring riders were as skillful as any that ever went around the ring of a circus. The crowd in the grand stand watched this race with breathless interest. The horses kept pretty close together and their riders urged them forward furiously. The four horses dashed around the homestretch neck and neck, but the rider dressed in red succeeded in getting a lead of a few yards. However, they this daring performer. but the rider dressed in red succeeded in get-ting a lead of a few yards. These beasts are endowed with a human intelligence beasts are endowed with a human intelligence which has been trained to a point which almost passes belief. The long car in which they are transported from place to place stands near the entrance to machinery hall. The professor will give his first exhibition this morning, and it will be well worth seeing. This is the same show that was so highly praised by the New York press. It alone is worth more than the price of admission to the grounds.

The Dauntless Acrobats.

Persons who enjoy acrobatic performances, such as the famous Hanlon brothers formerly gave here, will be glad to learn thats the La-Martine brothers, incomparable athletes, whose performances in the capitals of Europe excited the greatest awe and admiration, wil excited the greatest awe and admiration, will give exhibitions daily at the grounds. Barnum pronounced them the greatest artists in their line that he ever saw. They have a repertoire of the most marvelous feats. Their perform-ances will astound all who see them.

Rapidly Getting in Shape. Of course, nobody who knows anything about the work of getting hundreds of displays in proper shape expects that any exposition will be ready the first day. This is simply impos-sible. Yet, all who made a tour through the main building and its several annexes ex-pressed surprise at the good order of the ex-hibits. They are not yet perfectly arranged, some of them being in considerable disorder. A few of the tardy exhibitors only got their goods yesterday afternoon. As a genera thing, however, the exhibits are in much bet thing, however, the exhibits are in much better shape than they were the opening day last year. Last night a great deal of hard work was done among the displays, and when the gates open today a wonderful improvement will be manifest. By tomorrow the show will be complete.

A Scrub Race. A Scrub Bace.

A dozen or so members of the Governor's Horse Guards got up an impromtu race. It was an amusing and spirited affair. There was some good horsemanship displayed, and some not quite so good. The race was beenly enjoyed by the grand stand crowd.

The Balloon Ascension.

The balloon ascension, which was advertised to occur at halt-past 4 o'clock, was delayed an half hour on account of the failure of the aeronaut to get ready by that time. The ascension occurred about 5 o'clock, and was witnessed by hundreds of people. The ascent was made by Professor DeCouper and his wonderful dog, Fitzsimmons, from the north end of the King Solomon stage.

When the mammoth air chariot was inflated the aeronaut and his dog attached themselves to the trapeze and the ropes were cut. As soon as the balloon was loosed it shot upward like a rocket, and soured away toward the east. The eves of all were fixed intently on the sky. When it was several hundred feet above the earth, the dog was loosed, attached to a parachute. Professor DeCouper then leaped with a parachute, and both reached the earth about a half mile southeast of the exposition grounds. They will make an ascension daily.

A Visitor's Views.

A Visitor's Views.

Colonel Albert LaMott, a prominent South Carolina farmer, said: "I have attended every exposition that has been held in Atlanta since the cotton exposition. Today I have passed several hours inspecting the exhibits in the main building, but especially those in the agricultural department, and my verdict is that I have nover seen any better collection of farm products. The corn display excels anything I have ever seen, north, south, east or west I have taken intense interest in county fairs and last year I visited every fair in the west and northwest. I give it as my opinion west and most year I visited every fair in the west and northwest. I give it as my opinion that the variety of agricultural products shown in the different departments—notably in the display of Whitfield county—has never been excelled. I believe this year's exposition will surpass any one that has been held in Atlanta."

A Decatur Man's Views. Dr. Goss, of Decatur, has always taken an interest in the Piedmont exposition. He spent four or five hours yesterday in examining the many departments, devoting most of his time to the agricultural and live stock. He said: "Of course, everything now is in a confused state, but a few days will bring order out of disorder and then we will have such a continued state, but a lew days will bring order out of disorder, and then we will have such a show as will delight the heart of any Farmers' Allianceman. I was particularly pleased with the wonderful display of corn, and one thing that struck me was the lintless cotton. If is a marvelous product of the soil. I am told it is twice as profitable as any other variety. From present indications, I hazard nothing in predicting that this exposition will eclipse any of its predecessors."

The Side Shows. A hurried tour through the grounds brings the visitor incontact with a multitude of side shows of every conceivable description. The negro's head, stuck through a hole in the canvas, is a target for baseball throwers, who keenly relish the sport. Crowds all day long were kept busy trying to hit the woolly cranium. The wild girl and sundry other monstrosities, are exhibited in the tents. Some of the museum features are uncommonly good. As a rule, all the side-show features are better than those usually found in connection with fairs. They are well worth visiting.

The Printers' Contest. The extensively advertised printers' contest will begin this morning at 8 o'clock and will continue through the entire three weeks of the exposition. The printers who have entered the contest will work eight hours each day, and every visitor will have an opportunity to see a first-class printing office in operation The Constitution job offices, which furnishes the machinery and pays for the work will have three or four pres exhibition and will do job printing at the

The Atlanta firemen put on their new uniforms yesterday.

And they are the prettiest ever seen in Atlanta. But the prettiest thing about the uniforms is the fact that they were made in Atlanta.

The scissors and n edles were wielded by Atlanta cutters and Atlanta sewers, and as a natural consequence the fit is just as perfect as the work is complete. The suits are of dark blue, and every member wears on his collar a badge indicating his position in the department. Chief Joyner has always held that his men could be better uniformed at home than away, and that the ter uniformed at home than away, and that the work could be done just as cheap. For three years Jerry Lynch's Atlanta's prince of tailors, has been doing the work for the firemen, and he has never failed to please the men. This year Jerry's work is prettier and better than ever before.

HE WILL ACT TODAY.

Governor Northen Will Perhaps Veto the School Bill Today.

SOME IMPORTANT BILLS SIGNED.

Other Matters of Interest That Have Happened and Will Happen at the State Capitol.

Tomorrow is the last day the governor will nave to consider the school bill He will either have to affix his signature or veto it. The chances are he will veto the bill, giving his reasons for the same to the public.

Assistant Attorney General Little filed with the governor an opinion on the matter, in which he points out the natural construction that would be put upon the language of the bill. But yesterday afternoon he wired from Columbus that he had some additional matter to add to the opinion, and as a consequence the governor will not consider the matter fully until today. Attorney Little will be here and advise with him. The governor will this morning consider the pinions of Colonel Little and Commissioner Bradwell, together with letters from Mr. Fleming and Senator Terrell. Then he will lecide the matter.

Pardoned.

The governor commuted one sentence from four years to six months yesterday, and granted one pardon. The commutation was in the case of Henry Lay, convicted in Floyd county in August for obstructing a railroad. He is a young boy. Judge Maddox requested the commutation stating that he had sentenced him to the shortest term under the law, but that he thought six months would be enough to meet the demands of justice. Jim Watkins, of Heard county, was pardoned. He was convicted of burglary meat from a smokehouse and sentenced to fifteen years in 1876. The judge of the court that tried him and various other county officers requested the pardon on the grounds that the ends of justice had been met.

An Important Law.

The governor yesterday signed the bill to provide security to material men and laborers. The bill affects many thousand Georgians and will be read with interest. It provides that every person, firm or cor oration that gives out to contractors the uilding of any house, railroad or other structure shall retain 25 per cent of the contract price until the contractor shall submit to such person or corporation an affidavit that all debts incurred for material and labor in building such structure, or other structure of like nature, shall have been paid or that the per-sons to whom such debts for material and labor are owed have consented to the payment of said 25 per cent, and any person swearing falsely in making the affidavit as aforesaid shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. And any person that shall pay over to a contractor the said 25 per cent of the contract price of said structure without requiring the affidavit as aforesaid shall be liable to the extent of 25 per cent of the said contract price to any material. cent of the said contract price to any material man or laborer for material furnished or work for said contractor in building said structure or other structure of a like nature.

Acts Approved. The governor approved the following acts of the legislature yesterday:

THEY SWORE FALSELY, so the District Attorney Thought, and He Had Two Men Arrested.

Two witnesses in the United States court came o griaf yesterday.

At the March term they will respond to the charge of perjury.

Henry Reed, of Campbell county, was the de-fendant in a retailing case. When he appeared before Commissioner McLendon, at Newman, for commitment trial some time ago, B. B. Strickland swore positively to his guilt.

About the same time Newton Moore, of Fanning county, was arrested on the charge of illicit distilling and being engaged in operating the place. He was brought before Judge Boon Crawford, the Ben Pitman was a witness against him and through his testimony Moore was bound over to the district court. A verdict of "not guilty" was entered by the two defendants and jury trials held. When Strickland was put on the stand, Colonel Darnell, the prosecuting attorney, ex-pected favorable testimony.

He was disappointed. The witness swore that he knew nothing at all about the case, and so far as any knowledge of his was concerned, Reed was an innocent man. The case went to the jury and dence.

A few moments later Moore's case was called.

Pitman repeated exactly the performance of Strickland and the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty" of the charge, illicit distilling and the fellow was acquitted through lack of eviworking.

When the court adjourned the two witnesses were taken in custody at the order of Colonel Darnell. They were sent to jail, and will now have to answer to a more serious charge than that of the men whom their testimony acquitted.

Besides the two cases mentioned, six everal of cases were called in the district court, several of the offenders getting severe doses.

John R. Moere, of Cherokee county; John Gaddis, of Lumpkin; William Wesson, of Harralson, and G. W. Dean, of Union, were charged with illicit distilling and making. Moore pleaded guilty, and was given six months in the Cobb county jail. Gaddis was found guilty and sentenced to six months imprisonment and a fine of $100. Wesson was acquitted. Dean was given three months and $100.

Bureau Is Sending Out.

Bureau Is Sending Out.

The weather map, which is being posted so conspicuously about the city, is a surprisingly difficult thing to read, when one has not been initiated into its very simple mysteries.

The weather bureau at 8 o'cloud every morning takes observations, such as those of pressure, temperature, amount of cloudiness, direction and force of the wind and the humidity of the atmosphere, to determine the weather. These are taken at nearly two hundred points over the United States. Bish of the stations make up a telegraphic report in ciphers. They are transmitted by a system which renders this undertaking possible through a reasonable cost.

The reports read at Atlanta are chartered on the map of the country by a duplicate process the map of the country by a duplicate process which makes many copies.

On the weather map itself, a circle is seen at each station. If it is open, the weather is clear; if a single line is drawn across it, it means part cloudy; if crossed by two lines, entirely cloudy; circle is attached an arrow head, sh rection of the wind. At the side of each the figure shows the temperature. Beneath ap-pears another figure, indicating the velocity of the wind. The isobars drawn on the chart are lines passing

The isobars drawn on the chart are lines passing through every point where the atmospheric pressure is what is indicated by the figures at the end of the line. In regions where the pressure is below the average, the word "low" is marked, and the weather is usually of a cloudy or stormy nature. In some regions the pressure is above the average, and is then "high." There is then clear weather.

The possibility of weather predictions depends upon the general fact that storm areas move from west to east. In this movement they follow certain customary paths, "storm tracks."

At the right of the maps is a table of the rainfall in the past twenty-four hours. In the left hand corner is a forecast for thirty-six hours.

There will soon be an improvement in the weather maps. Hot and cold waves will be indicated by cologred areas on maps. The outfit for this change is on the way to Atlanta now.

The Insurance Bill.

The insurance bill, which is now in the hands of the gevernor, presents a feature which has been hereiofore overlooked by both underwriters and citizens of the state interested in it. The bill as set forth in its caption is intended to prevent combinations or pools of insurance companies, or their agents, and applies equally to life, fire arrivaccident insurance. When one considers that the life companies fix their rates on well-established mort ality tables, the injustice of the section which allows any citizen who has been refused insurance at reasonable rates to cite this company to appear, becomes at once apparant. The governor of the state should be very careful before signing a bill of this class, which will affect not only the fire insurance companies but the life companies. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are invested in this state in life insurance and the credit of many citizens is backed by policies of this kind. It therefore behooves the chief executive of the state to pause before signing a bill which may cause these companies to retire entirely from the state of Georgia.

BAKING POWDERS.

Facts Brought Out by the Official Government Tests.

THE PEOPLE DEMAND PURITY OF FOOD.

Which One of the Many Powders Now Before the Public will Give It? Interesting Facts.

From The Chicago Tribune. The public is always responsive to suggestions about the food it eats. Great interest has been taken in the investigations made by the United States and Canadian governments and by the different boards of health to show the purity or impurity of milk, baking powders, spices, and other articles of daily use in the culinary department of our households. Just now the subject of baking powder is claiming public attention. We all desire pure and wholesome bread and this can not be had with the use of impure or poisonous baking powder. There can be no longer any question that all the cheaper, lower grades of baking powders contain either alum, lime, or phosphatic acid.

The official analyses by the United States The official analyses by the United States and Canadian governments have therefore been studied with interest and have pretty clearly established the facts upon the subject. The United States government report gives the names of eighteen well-known powders, some of them advertised as pure cream of tartar baking powders, that contain alum.

The report shows that the Royal baking powder was found the highest in leavening strength, evolving 160.06 cubic inches of gas per single ounce of powder. There were eight other brands of cream of tartar powders tested and their average strength was 111.5 cubic inches of gas per ounce of powder.

inches of gas per ounce of powder.

The Canadian government investigations were of a still larger number of powders. The Royal baking powder was here also shown the purest and highest in strength, containing 139.32 cubic inches of leavening gas per ounce of powder. Nine other cream of tartar pow-ders were tested, their average strength being reported to be 89 cubic inches of gas per ounce.

These figures are very instructive to the practical housekeeper. They indicate that the Royal baking powder goes more than 33 per cent further that use than the others, or is onethird movement and the others, of its third movement than this,—wever, they prove this popular article has been brought to the highest degree of purity—for to its superlative purity this superiority in strength is due—and consequently that by its use we may be insured the purest and most wholescent food.

and most wholesome food.

The powders of lower strength are found to leave large amounts of inert matters in the food. This fact is emphasized by the report of the Ohio state food commissioner, who, while finding the Royal practically pure, found no other powder to contain less than 10 per cent of inert or foreign matters.

per cent of inert or foreign matters.

The public interest in this question has likewise caused to be made investigations by our local authorities. Professor W. S. Haines, of Rush Medical college, consulting chemist of the Chicago board of health, has found results similar to these recorded by similar to those reported by the national and Canadian authorities. Dr. Haines says:

RUSH MEDICAL COLLEGE, Chicago, Ill. RUSH MEDICAL COLLEGE, Chicago, 111.

I have recently obtained samples of the chief baking powders in the market, and have subjected them to careful chemical examination to determine their purity, wholesomenes, and leavening power. As the result of my tests I find the Royal baking powder superior to all the others in avery respect. It is ento all the others in every respect. It is en-tirely free from all adulteration and unwhole-some impurity, and in baking it gives off a greater volume of leavening gas than any other powder. It is, therefore, not only the purest, but also the strongest powder with which I am acquainted.

WALTER S. HAINES, M. D., Consulting Chemist, Chicago Board of Health.
The statistics show that there is used in the manufacture of the Royal baking powder sumed in the United States for all purposes. The wonderful sale thus indicated for the Royal Baking Powder—greater than that of all other baking powders combined—is per-haps even a higher evidence than that already quoted of the superiority of this article, and of its indispensableness to modern cookery.

A Word of Welcome.

Today the governor of the Empire State of the north enters the gates of the Empire State of the south as the honored guest of her capital city.

Governor Hill is more than welcome. He has been a stalwart, and a tried and a true democrat when others faltered. At all times and under all circumstances he has been a staunch and a fearless defender of the faith.

Making no pretensions to oratory in the ordinary sense of the word, Governor Hill has nevertheless made himself a power on the stump whenever he has responded to the call of the people. His brilliant services to his party in McKinlev's district in Ohio, last fall, will not soon be forgotten by the country.

A man of the people, in thorough sympathy with the principles and objects of popular government-another name for Jeffersonian democracy-he has made a record as governor of New York that will place him side by side in history with Samuel J. Tilden.

Atlanta's gates swing wide open to greet the entrance of this tribune of the people. Today Governor Hill will find himself surrounded by 90,000 friends and

Good Roads and Bad.

If the road congress, which is to meet in Atlanta on the 28th of October, accomplishes no other result, the mere fact that it assembles will show that public interest in this important matter is growing and increasing. The congress will undoubtedly accomplish much more than this. It may be impossible to seize on and point out the practical results that will ensue, but once the people are thoroughly aroused on the subject-once they can be brought to see that the whole movement has for its purpose the saving of thousands of dollars to neighborhoods and individuals, to say nothing of the enhancement of land values and the increase of the conveniences of farm life-once they can be induced to examine the subject in all its bearings-they will not fail to realize the vital importance to their own interests of improved roads.

It is true that habit and custom have dulled the public mind in the matter of roads. Those that we have in Georgiaand Georgia is no worse off in this respect than the other states-are an inheritance from colonial times. Our method of making roads and of keeping them in repair is also an inheritance. There has been no material improvement in this method for a hundred years, and if an attempt were made to show in figures what this method has cost the people of Georgia alone, to say nothing of the rest of the country, with no result whatever to show for the outlay, the amount would be a startling one. If to the cost were added the loss that has accrued by reason of bad roads, the figures would be almost past belief. But the estimate is a very simple one, and any intelligent farmer can figure it out to suit his own case. If, on a good road, one horse can haul as much as two horses on a bad road-if one two-horse wagon can make two trips on good roads with less inconvenience than one trip could be made on bad roads-the difference can very easily be set down in figures.

It is claimed, and with good reason, that in the matter of progress and development, the farming industry has not kept pace with the other industries of the country. This is partly accounted for by the vicious republican legislation of the last quarter of a century, but the main reason is to be found in the fact that the farmers, except in specially favored regions, are handicapped by the wretched system of roads which intervenes between farm and market. When the in telligent farmers of Georgia thoroughly realize this fact we shall have a change. In the nature of things it will be a gradual change, but the results thereof will be none the less obvious.

It is not the cost of good roads that has kept the farmers from agitating this question. When the cost of good roads is compared with the cost of the wretched ones that are now in use, the element of economy is altogether with the former. It would cost the farmers less to have good roads than it does to make a pretense of keeping up the present barbarous system, taking into account, of course, the wear and tear of stock and vehicles, and the lost time. The cost of hauling an average load over the roads as they exist is not less than three times what it would be if the roads were good, or even tolerably good. It is this element of cost-the extravagant waste that is constantly going on under the present system-that will finally convince the farmers of the necessity of making a radical change in the character of the public roads and in the method of mending them.

On the Right Line.

Several weeks ago when an armed gang of Pinkerton men entered West Virginia to overawe the miners, we suggested that the state authorities should take action in the

At last the good people in the neighborhood of the mines have arrested a number of the Pinkertons, and it is their purpose to prosecute them to the full extent of the law. This is as it should be. The Pinkertons have no right to prowl about over the country with pistols in their pockets. Their presence is a menace to peace and order. It is not enough for them to plead that they are employed to protect property. The state and county authorities are organized and empowered to protect property, and under no circumstances are they justified in allowing irresponsible men from another state to invade their territory as the hirelings of certain capitalists and corporations who, for reasons of their own, do not care to appeal to the local guardians of the peace.

It is to be hoped that the West Virginians will make short work of this gang of pistoltoters, and teach them such a lesson that they will leave the state never to return. If the mine owners are in the right they will not find it difficult to obtain protection. If they are in the wrong they should not be protected at the expense of the innocent.

The Exposition's Opening.

Yesterday there was not a cloud in the sky. It was a perfect Indian summer

Atlanta was gay with flaunting banners and bunting, and the strains of martial music made the welkin ring. The streets were thronged with pleasure-seeking people, and everything wore a bright holiday aspect.

day.

It was the great opening day of the Piedmont exposition, and the visiting thousands, in common with our home people, showed how eagerly they entered i to the spirit of the occasion. The programme of the day, embracing the procession, and the opening exercises at the Piedmont park, could not have been carried out under more auspicious eircumstances.

The exposition itself never had a more promising opening day. The exhibits and other attractions never made a better showing, and it was the general verdict that Georgia's great fair never before presented as many elements of success.

With a few days of this delightful veather the exposition is bound to make for itself a notable record. It has the exhibits, and the crowd is assured. At present the outlook is that it will rank with the grandest industrial inbilees ever seen in the south. After this first day's experience, our friends at a distance need not delay their coming another train. They may rest assured that they will see here everything that they expect and desire, and much more equally pleasant that is not in the programme.

The Liberian Movement. Bishop Henry M. Turner, on behalf of his race, has gone to Liberia to see what that country looks like, and to see for himself what advantages the negroes of this country would have in colonizing there. Bishop Turner is a very able negro, and if he returns to this country with a favorable report he will be able to induce a great many of his race to emigrate. Should his report be unfavorable, which it is likely to be if it, tallies with other accounts of Liberia, the movement will die out, and nothing more will be heard of it for a generation. Liberia seems to have made no progress whatever since it was set apart by the American Colonization Society as a negro republic. There has been an increase of population, but it is generally admitted that no real progress has been made. It seems to lack all the elements that enter into the growth of a state. This fact has been realized by some of the foreign powers, and they have entered on a series of experiments which are likely to result in the absorption of Liberia. Germany has seized a large slice of territory belonging to the so-called republic, and France has also staked off a claim. The Harrison administration is in full possession of the facts, but the Americanism that was to startle the world when Blaine became secretary of state seems to have fizzled out. Brother Blaine's Americanism doesn't contemplate the protection of the Liberian republic, so-called.

The negro voters would do well to inquire

It is said that a few years ago some of the mem bers of foreign legations in Washington gave the police no end of trouble. They knew that they could not be punished for any ordinary mis-demeanor, and frequently raised a row on the stree's. When arrested they had to be released as soon as identified. Finally the police tried a as soon as identified. Thanky the poince tried a new dodge. They had a few singgers loading around the station, who made it a point to pitchinto the foreigners, and give them black eyes and bloody noses. This quieted the riotous members of the legation, and for some time past they have given the police very little trouble.

A WRITER IN The New York Truth says: "] should say The Times is worth the two and a half millions Mr. Jones refused. The Tribune is worth that, too. Each has a lofty building that represents a large investment and yields an income almost a large investment and yields an income almost rivaling the newspaper profits. Mr. Dana's price for The Sun three years ago, was five millions. That was when it was a six-page paper, just recovering from the mistake of 1884, and only beginning to make room by enlargement for an extensive advertising business. I imagine Mr. Dana's price now would be quite seven and a half million dollars, and when the new thirty-two story building is up, perhaps ten million seven and a half million dollars, and when the new thirty-two story building is up, perhaps ten million dollars. Mr. Bennett, it has long been understood, values The Herald at ten million dollars, and I suppose Mr. Pulitzer would not take less for The World. Here are five morning newspapers worth, say, thirty to thirty-five million dollars. The Staats-Zeitung should be in the list, too. It would add, perhaps, five million dollars. Altogether the daily newspapers of New York are worth more than forty million dollars. Of course these figures do not represent capital invested; thay stand for the principal, upon which the earnings of the journals named would be a fair return, and that, certainly, is what those journals are worth.'

ACCORDING TO The Rhilway Age, the fastest long distance run on record was made last Tuesday by a special train on the New York Central road which covered the distance of 436½ miles from which covered the distance of 436½ miles from New York to East Buffalo in 440 minutes, or seven hours and twenty minutes, not deducting for twe stops in changing engines, and a stop of nearly Except for this accidental delay the entire 440 miles to Buffalo station would doubtless have been made it 440 minutes. An average of nearly a mile a minute for 440 miles means a tremendous speed on many portions of the run, and means also a splendid condition of track, as well as a special power and capacity for the engines. Of the three engines which accomplished this great feat one had drivers six feet six inches in diameter, while those of the other two measured five feet eight inches. A number of miles in this run were made in forty-nine seconds each, and one mile was covered in forty-eight seconds, which is equivalent to seventy-five miles per hour.

PROFESSOR C. A. YOUNG thinks that we may me day be able to signal the inhabitants Mars if we construct singular looking objects some fifteen or twenty miles in diameter. He ad-mits that the expense of such works is a big obstacle in their way.

He is, however, seeing the ecumenical by proxy. He has a wide-awake correspondent whom nothing escapes. To this correspondent he was probably indebted for the following paragraph: The prosy readings in the ecumenical were diversified on last Monday by a personal and wrathful tilt of the English delebeer barrels' and the like were flung to and fro This clamor failed to awaken Bishop Gaines, who noved an octave higher.'

A TRIP THROUGH GEORGIA,

Here is a good story from Tennille. A lady liv ing at that place had put up a lot of preserves, brandy peaches and cherries, and after she had her winter supply all nicely put away, their pastor called on them, and she, of course, first thing, told of the past week's work, and how well she was fixed for winter.

The pastor, being a very strong prohibitionist, gave the lady a lecture for putting up the brandy peaches and cherries, so the first chance she got she went to the pantry, got her brandy peaches and cherries, went out in the poultry yard and emptied them all out. The turkeys saw the nice red cherries and ate them. In a few hours afterward the family was surprised to see lying all over the yard dead turkeys. They lamented over having lost their peaches, cherries and turkeys, but con-clued they would have the negroes on the place to gather up all the dead turkeys and have them picked and save the feathers anyhow. So they gathered up 127 head, picked them clean, saved the tails and wings to make fans out of.

They closed out all the tails and wings to Messrs. Brown & Franklin, who will have them put in shape, ready for next season. The smaller feathers were sold to Messrs. J. C. Hamilton & Co., who will add to their furniture business a wholesale feather-bed business.

After picking the turkeys clean they went to Murchison Bros. and got a wagon, hauled the dead, picked turkeys off two miles. This hap-pened one afternoon; the next day, about 11 pened one afternoon; the next day, about it o'clock, they were surprised to see coming down the road 127 picked turkeys. They were not dead, but simply drunk!

The Albany News and Advertiser is in favor of paying certain state officials better salaries. The News and Advertiser says: "The governor has never been paid enough for the service he renders. His duties are ardnous e and not at all in conform

"The supreme court judges have been overworked for years, and the many efforts to have the number of judges increased have met with popular disfavor. We are sorry to see such a feeling among the people. We don't believe that it will inspire the good men of the state with the courage to accept these positions to do such a large amount of work on a salary that does not begin to compensate them for their labor."

Mr. Elias Nelms, a prosperous farmer of Brook county, is entitled to the first prize for down rugged, uncompromising honesty. Re-he decided to sell a few head of cattle. He picked out those he wished to dispose of and figured it out to himself that they were worth $48. A fewdays later a stock main came along, looked over the lot and offered $50 for them. Mr. Nelms didn't think that the right price and refused to take over $48. Had the man offered him a thou-sand dollars, his friends say that he would have refused it. Mr. Nelms enjoys a quigt conscience,

Since his return to Brunswick Senator Lam has been interviewed on various topics. In an interview with a Times reporter the senator, re-ferring to the work of the legislature, said: "In an offhand way it is not easy for me to re-member the many bills passed by the general as-sembly. I think the bill providing for the ap-pointment of a board of appraisers to fix the val-ues on land for taxation, one of the best pieces of legislation which has been smoothed for years." legislation which has been enacted for years. It will result in making a great increase values for this purpose. Another bill, which be-came a law, providing for fining railroads that fail to adopt the freight and passenger rates fixed by the railroad commission, I think a good law." The Times man took advantage of the political turn the conversation had taken to ask Senator "I am not talking much about that yet," said

"Well, you are in the race, senator?" "Oh, yes, I have consented tation of many of my friends." Further than to say this the senator seemed reactant to speak.

THINGS IN GENERAL.

That was rather a bad blunder the legislative inference committee made on the scholl bill. But, fortunately, a veto by the governor can worse off. The intentions of the authors of the bill can be carried out by the next legislature without delay, for this bill, had it read as it was intended to read, would not have been eflegislature.

The error on the part of the committee was natural one considering the rush of the last day. But it demonstrates one thing, and that is, nembers should be provided with printed copies of all bills and amendments in order that they can examine ithem before voting. As it was in this case, there were not ten men in the house who knew what the provisions of the bill were when they voted for it. There was but one hurriedly drafted copy, and amid the con fusion the members could not hear the words nation until after the bill had been adopted.

A prominent minister of the Episcopal church is authority for the assertion that Rev. C. C. Williams, of Augusta, will be the next bisho of Georgia.

It might be thus. Certainly no he learned or beloved man could be found of such elevation. Mr. Williams would be an honor to th bishopric.

The Pullman Car Company made an excellent selection when it sent Mr. J. P. Leach here as the superintendent of this division. Mr. Leach has been with the company for number of years. Mr. John Shriver, of The New York Mail and Express, will be here tonight to write un the ceremonies tomorrow for his paper. Mr. Shriver was here with President Harrison' party last spring. Pleas Stovall has proven himself no less an orator than an editor. He has made the editorial page of The Augusta Ohronicle as strong and bright as the best metropolitan dailies. force. ETCHED AND SKETCHED.

Whitfield's insurance hill is not likely to become a law after all. Its popularity in the general assembly does not furnish the gov-ernor with conclusive evidence of its wisdom or equity, and unless some signs fail the bill will receive the seal of executive disapproval in the shape of that word so dear to the tongue of the Roman tribune. "I forbid," will probably end its career.

The Technological school, founded in 1885 by the legislature, is doing more to revolutionize Georgia than any other agency or institution in this state. A widely traveled gentle-man, who has studied similar schools on two sides of the Atlantic, pronounces it by all odds the best in the south and excellent in itself. "But," said he, "it is a shame that Georgia does not quadruple her appropriation. I do not live in your state, but I have invested some money in it. Let me give you one benefit of these institutions not familiar to every one. If we wish to preserve American principles of government, we must educate our own mechanics and artisans, and cease to import foreign skilled labor entertaining alien ideas

The crowd yesterday was merely the begin ning of the flood, so to speak. Just as when the tide starts in and runs up a little way on the beach, you know, the first fifteen minutes It comes in rather quietly then and there are only ripples along the sand. Directly, though, the large swell grows into a treinendous roll and then the breakers, and after that the waves rush resistlessly up on the shore of the loud sounding sea, as Homer would say.
Well, that is the way it will be with the tide of visitors to Atlanta and her great Piedmont exposition. Yesterday we had the first waves; day the tide will roll higher, and tomorro today the tide will form inglies, it will bound and seethe.

Yesterday's visitors were mostly from neaf-by points. They saw the parade and the expesition, too, and did some shopping between times. Comparatively few stopped at the hotels, but the college, men and exhibitors and the usual amount of travel filled the hostelries to just about the overflowing point. Crowds are commonly described as good natured. That seems to be a quality which all newspaper writers ascribe to crowds, even to mobs of lynchers. One reason why masses of people are inclined to be in a ple nood, no matter what is up, is that many amusing things are constantly occurring.

Here is a singular fact. Cotton this year is so good in quality that some of the spinners are complaining about it and will not buy, although they can get a fine grade for less n than they paid for poor cotton last year. It is an actual fact that some spinners are ing because the crop is too fine. The mills are set to run certain grades. If a mill is set to run a low grade, it will not run a fine quality without being changed. And then the spinners who make a low grade, cheap class of goods, say that if they make a better quality of goods this year, and sell for the same price they got last year, they will be expected to make a quality as good next year, and maybe they will ot be able to get the cotton. Hence they do not want fine cotton, even at low prices this eason. Poor cotton is hard to get, whereas a year ago there were no fine grades at any

A fighting epidemic has broken out amon the bootblacks. Dinner time is about the only hour they rest. There must be a champie ship tournament in progress. Two were in progress in front of the Kimball at the sam noment yesterday. One boy threw his box at his opponent and smashed a forty-seven-dollar plate glass window in the Central railroad ticket office. One of the other two fighter fired his box at his enemy, missed him and struck a gentleman in the Western and Atlantic office.

The straw hat has been called in and the open cars should follow.

Assistant Superintendent Wilson, of the public schools, who is also principal of the light school, says that the boys who attend the night school are a bright set, as a rule They are ambitious and are anxious to get ahead. They work hard, however, during the day, and are irregular in attendance. This is because they are often too tired to go out after reaching home. It is a common thing for the night school boys to fall asleep over their Atlanta's school population increases at a remarkable rate. There is either a large and teady influx of families or the christening business is kept up at a lively gait. But then there was a special inducement in this direction from the settlement of Georgia. It is a historical fact worth remembering that gentleman named Hume offered a silver boo and spoon as a prize for the first white child born in the colony. Whether the premium had anything to do with it or not, a Mrs. Close infant won. That was fifty-eight years ago.

AT THE THEATER.

Since the days of the lamented Abbott, Chevalier Scoville and Miss Padelford, Atlanta has had nothing in the way of opera that approached "The Sea King" at DeGive's last night. This charming opera was originally written by Richard C. Stahl, and made a decided hit in New York. It has since been re-written—libretto and score—by Yale and Perlit. The costumes were designed by C. DeGrim, and each is an artistic crea tion, while the whole piece is staged with that elegance and studied regard for effect that characterizes all of Mr. W. J. Gilmore's undertakings. Its initial performance last night produced a distinctly favorable impression. Many had formed an erroneous idea of the play; most people believed it must be, from its name, the dramatization of some thrilling dime novel. This was a wrong impres-sion. While it is thrillingly interesting, yet it is a finely constructed drama, replete with strong situations and brilliant dialogues. The scenes were not, as might naturally be supposed from the play's name, laid beyond the Rockies. They are in New York.

Welborn Bray.

Large Firms.
Several more important changes in the local business world is announced. On December 1st, Mr. Edwin Kingsberry will withdraw from the firm of Bates, King berry & Co. It will cease to handle sho will increase its stock of clothing and add $50, 000 to its present business capital. There will also be a big change in the firm of Gramling, Spalding & Co. Dr. R. D. Spald-Edwin Kingsberry and Mr. Joseph Kingsberry will form a company to be known as the Gram ling. Spalding, Kingsberry company, to deal in holesale shoes, leather and shoe findings.

With such old members of the firm as Dr.

Spalding and Mr. Tom Gramling, and with Mr. Ed Kingsberry and Mr. Joe Kingsberry, so long with Moore, Marsh & Co., the new firm expects to do a large business.

The Bates-Kingsberry company occupies the five-story building on Decatur street, near Pryor. A force of carpenters and kalsominers is now at work beautifying the place. The head of the firm consists of Mr. E. K. Bates and Mr. Charles S. Kingsberry. The former gentleman makes his headquarters in New York; the latter gives his personal attention to the business here.

PEDDLERS' LICENSES.

The Tax Committee Has the Matter Well in Hand.

Peddlers' licenses are now in the hands of the tax committee of the general council.

During the session of the council yesterday Mr. Reinhardt presented a resolution amending the tax ordinance of 1891 and 1892 so that the granting of licenses to peddlers, not included in the schedule, be left in the hands of the tax committee during the term of the Piedmont exposition. The tax committee is composed of Mr. Reinhardt, Mr. Rice and Mr. Turner, and every morning the committee will meet in Mr. Reinhardt's office to consider applications for peddiers' licenses.

Around Which Will Gather the Leading Democrats of the Country

AT THE KIMBALL TOMORROW NIGHT.

Hill Respuds to "Democracy."
Other Details.

There will be a feast of reason and a flow of soul at the Kimball house Wednesday night, such as has seldom been known in Atlanta. It will be the royal banquet given by the Young Men's Democratic League of Atlanta, to Governor David B. Hill and distinguished party of visitors at the unveiling of the Grady monument. Preparations have been made by the banquet committee on the most elaborate scale, and the success of the great event is already assured.

The committee who have the banquet in charge, and who have done such excellent work in arranging, is made up of the following well-known gentlemen:

Harvey Johnson, Chairman John M. Slaton, John W. Cox. Fulton Colville, J. F. O'Neill, Jack J. Spalding, Hooper Alexander, Hamilton Douglas, Arnold Broyles, Clark Howell, W. C. Glenn. Charles S. Northen William P. Hill. J. K. Ohl,

Andrew E. Calhoun. By long odds the banquet tonight will be one on the most magnificent scale of any ever given in Atlanta. It will be an event of national importance as Governor Hill and others of the most prominent democrats of the country will be seated at the festal board-Mr. Jack Slaton, the popular young president of the league, will preside at the banquet, and will act as toastmaster. Some of the leading democrats of Georgia will be present as guests, and will lend their aid in making the affair convivial and The menu will be elegant. The caterers of the Kimball will be on their mettle, and will prepare such a democratic feast as is rarely The Toasts and Responses. Between the clinking of the sparkling wine glass the toasts will be announced by President Slaton and responded to by the different gentlemen selected. The first toast, "Welcome of the Democratic City of Atlanta to Its Democratic Guests." will Then Governor Northen will respond to this sentiment: "The Empire State of the South Greets the Empire State of the Union-May democratic majorities never grow

The inspiring toast of the evening-"Democracy"—will be responded to by that sterling democrat, than whom there are none better, Governor David B. Hill, of New York. This will be the toast of the evening and the response by Governor Hill is eagerly looked forward to by those who will be present. The toast, "The National Business-Its measure of prosperity is its measure of safe, just and conservative government. It looks with satisfaction upon the ascendancy of democratic principles," will be responded to by Hon. John A. McCall, of New York. That silver-tongued young orator, Hon. Fleming G. duBignon, of Savannah, will respond to the toast so well suited to his eloquence and enthusiasm, "Georgia," That familiar figure in Georgia journalism and politics, Hon. Patrick Walsh, of Augusta, will respond in his own humoro able way to the toast: "The Democratic Pressglorious record of the party's past, and blazes the way for renewed democratic victory.' General Henry W. Slocum, of New York, s his eloquence to this sentiment: "The Vet eran-Whether he be federal or confederate he rejoices in a reunited country, and thanks God for the blessings of his citizenship." The eloquence of General Slocum is well known and something exceedingly grand and beautiful is expected in response to this patriotic

The last toast of the evening will be responded to quite as eloquently as any of those preceding it. It reads: "Our Country-To whose flag and future the south is as loyal as any section of the union." The response to this toast will be made by Colonel John Temple Graves, who is noted for his eloquence. Promptly at 8 O'clock. The banquet will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. It will be the most delightful affair of the kind ever given in Atlanta. Members of the league who desire to attend the banquet, and who have not already re-ceived tickets, should be sure to secure them early this morning by calling on President Harvey Johnson. Harvey Johnson.

There is a great demand for tickets from people outside, and members of the league who delay getting tickets until tonight will fail to get them at all.

SOCIETY GOSSIP.

This evening at 8 o'clock Governor and Mrs. Northen have cordially invited the public to an elegant reception at the massion in honor of Governor Hill and his party. The entertainments of our governor and his charming lady have al-ways been characterized by a rare elegance and brilliancy, and this one will be notable in every way.

The affair has been kept very quiet, and it is only during the past few weeks that the report of Miss Fitten's marriage has been mentioned among her friends. Mr. Bewick is a son of the millionaire of Detroit. For the past few years he has been making his home in Savannah, where he is well and popularly known in the social and business life of that city.

His handsome and charming personality makes him a perfect match for the dazzling beauty and brilliant mind which has made Miss Fitten one of the most notable social stars in the southern states.

THE EXERCISES OF YESTERDAY

Late Arrival of the Delegates and Visitors What Will Be Done in the Way of Receptions.

HE opening session of the Phi Delta Theta gan at 9 o'clock yesterday morning in the house of representatives. A large and enthusiastic delegation of both active and alumni members, with a party of visiting ladies, were present to greet the opening.

The convention was called to order by Mr. E. H. L. Randolph, of New York city, president of the general council. Prayer was offered by the secretary of the general council, Professor H. Th. Miller, of Butler university.

A graceful address of welcome was made in behalf of the Georgia Phis by Mr. Claude Bennett. He said the Atlanta members were glad to meet their fraters from distant sections, because all were citizens of one country, acknowledged allegiance to one flag, and were united in the fellowship of a common mystic bond. The address seemed to captivate the visitors.

Happy responses were made by Colonel W. W. Quarles, of Selma, member of the Alabama general assembly, and Scott Bonham ent young lawyer from Cincinnati. The addresses called forth much enthusiasm As each speaker concluded the boys raised the

New York, Cincinnati, Louisville, Nashville

The distinguished founder of Phi Delta Theta, Rev. Robert Morrison, a Presbyterian minister of Foulton, Mo., was then intro duced to the convention. But there was need of no such formal introduction. His name is lisped in the infancy of every Phi Delta Theta and his face is known by the Phi membership from Alpha to Omega.

Rev. Mr. Morrison said that he had come all the way from his Missouri home solely to greet his younger brothers, and that in them all he took an earnest and just pride. He had at-tended many conventions in the past, and the last three consecutively, and would always esteem it the greatest pleasure of his life to meet with the boys of his loved fraternity.

Reports of the Officers. The secretary of the general council, H. Th. Miller, next made an official report on the state of the order. It was universally prosperous. A chapter had been lanted at washington college, St. Louis; an alumni associa erous. A chapter had been lanted at Washtion formed at Salt Lake City, and numerous petitions for charters refused.

Encouraging reports were also made by J.
M. Moyer, of New York city, president of Alpha province, and T. S. Ball, of Montgomery, president of Gamma province. The editor of The Scroll, Dr. J. E. Brown, of Columbus, O., reported that the bi-monthly magazine of the fraternity was in a prosperous financial condition, there being a balance in the treasury-a rare achievement, indeed, for college fraternity journalism.

F. D. Swope, of Louisville, one of the catalogue editors, reported that materials for the work were nearly all collected; that 116 pages had been printed; that the book would contain 500 pages, and that an issue of 3,500 copies would be made.

The convention ordered telegrams sent to the presidents of Mercer, Emory and the State university requesting that students be granted leave of absence to attend the first Phi Delta Theta convention in Georgia.

Messages of Regret.

Letters were read from President Benjamin Harrison, Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, and other prominent Phis, expressing deep regret at their inability to attend the conven-

Committees were appointed on visiting mem bers, chapters, charters, constitution, fritual, publications, records, provinces, internal imrovements and special resolutions. Today at noon was set as the time for having a convention group photograph taken.

Late in the afternoon the convention was adjourned until 9 o'clock this morning.

Morning and afternoon sessions will be held each day until Friday evening.

Last night some of the boys enjoyed themselves conversing in the parlors or about the lobby of the Kimball house. Many others, however, enjoyed the attractions revealed by Atlanta's footlights. At DeGive's they got so enthused at one juncture that they let loose the Phi yell suddenly, to the dismay of the actors behind the curtain and those in front

This evening the delegates, by invitation, will attend the reception tendered Governor David B. Hill, of New York, by Governor Northen. Thursday evening Governor Northen will give a reception to the Phis and the ladies from a distance attending the convention. ladies from a distance attending the conven-tion. On that occasion a poem will be read by Mr. H. O. Sibley, librarian of Syracuse university. A musical programme will also be furnished by local talent. After the recep-tion Thursday evening there will be a grand banquet at the Kimball house, with the usual Later Arrivals.

In addition to the fraternity officers already mentioned the following are present: H. W. Clark, St. Louis, treasurer of the general council; C. H. Tebault, Jr., New Orleans, president of the Delta province; J. R. Hill, Jr., Chicago, president of the Zeta province.

Additional delegates and visitors are Howard A. Lincoln, Amherst; W. S. Gilbert, Cornell; N. S. Allen, Lafayette; R. E. Macelroy, Hanover; Harry Weidner, Miami; S. S. Baker, Washington and Jefferson; R. F. Anderson, Lombard; J. H. Creighton, Randolph-Macon; L. W. Watson, Richmond, J. B. Sloan and Mr. White, South Carolina college; J. J. Cassels, University of Georgia; Henry Chambers, Mercer; A. J. Gibson, University of Alabama; W. F. Feagin, Alabama Polytechnic; Leigh Andrews, Southern; Charles V. Cosby and H.T. Tibault, Jr., Tulane; G.W. Stiles, Iowa State; W. A. Longnecker, Iowa Wesleyan; O. H. Holmes, Kansas State; and A. E. Guilmette, Nebraska State university. Also C. W. A Chat with the Founder. Rev. Robert Morrison is a cordial gentleman past the middle of life, with rather a modest bearing, but having the searching glance that knows, and the grasp that reciprocates true

With a group of younger Phis about him the elder brother is the picture of happiness. He is proud of the boys and well he may be. Last night he was indulging in memories of the old days at Miami university. There in 1848, he conceived the idea and saw it developed of founding a new fraternity on somewhat of a higher plane than the other chapters then there.

He graduated in 1849. After a pleasant chat the reporter asked:
"Mr. Morrison, did you not initiate President Benjamin Harrison into the Phi Delta Theta?"

"Yes," he answered, "I did, and he washe "Yes," he answered, "I did, and he was he thirteenth man initiated into the fraternity."
"Well, thirteen is called an unlucky number, Mr. Morrison; how did that one prove?"
"That thirteen was like the thirteenth disciple, Paul," the old gentleman continued. "Benjamin Harrison proved an invaluable acquisition. I will relate an incident of fraternity history in which he did the order a great benefit.

benefit.

"He was president of the Miami chapter when the first chapter trouble arose. Not foreseeing anything arising of the kind the laws were not framed for severe discipline. Two fellows were in the fraternity—genial fellows—but who unfortunately contracted habits of dissipation.

"Finally it grew unbearable, and the chapter had to take action. The members who wished to protect the fraternity appealed to Benjamin Harrison, the chapter president, for counsel. He took the ground that the chapter could not ignore such irregularities on the grounds of self-respect and self-protection, and proceeded to arraign and try the guilty proceeded to arraign and try the guilty members.

"They were tried, found guilty and expelled. It made a breach in the chapter, but other better men, who had long withstood invitations, seeing the stand taken by the Phi chapter, immediately after joined, and contributed greatly to the latter success of the Phi Delta Theta at Miami as elsewhere.

"Thus, by his decision and pluck, Benjamin Harrison, the lucky thirteenth member, stove off a threatening danger and preserved the mother chapter of our order."

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Mr. Will George Drives Into a Sewer with Serious Results.

Yesterday evening, about 5 o'clock, a sewer five feet deep, opposite the Ivy street school, caved in. Later Mr. Will George was driving along the street in his buggy and fell into the chasm, and street in his buggy and fell into the chasm, and was badly bruised up. His horse was badly injured and will probably die. Mr. George had to get the assistance of a block and tackle and some gentlemen to get the horse out. The buggy was smashed to pieces.

Captain A. B Carrier, president of the humaner society, was notified and investigated the matter, and report that the sewer caved in before dark, and that it was marked by no light or other signal.

time on a scale of unprecedented magnitude, had the effect this morning of completing the utter rout of the bulls. Their cry was that of the French after the repulse of the Oid Guard at Waterloo: "Save himself who can!"

January contracts sold at 8.29 cents, a decline of eighty-two points in ten days. There were frost accounts, but nobody paid any attention to them. A partial recovery at the close appeared to be nothing more than a natural reaction on demand from the room traders to cover receipts. Most of the southern markets were ½c lower, but some were only 1-16c lower. The weather was generally cool, but not unfavorable. Spot cotton was "¿c lower.

Ellison v. Georgia Railroad Co, and vice versa.

Stare decisis. Amendment. Railroads. Negligence. Parent and child. Master and servant. Before Judge Marshall J. Clarke. Fulton superior court.

1. Courts of final review are bound by the rule of Stare decisis, both as a canon of public good, and a law of seli-preservation; nevertheless, where a grave and palpable error, widely affecting the administration of justice, must either be selemnly sanctioned or repudiated the maxim which applies is fial tyettila ruat coelum.

2. Amendment is a resource against waste. It proceeds on the principle that it is betterto preserve what has been done and improve it than to throw it away. There is as much reason for correcting important defects as the less important, and those of substance at an early stage has always been allowable as matter of judicial discretion. The act of 1804 make it a matter of right at any stage. The code does the same, "provided there is enough to amend by," and with a further restriction against adding new parties or a new cause of action. The act made the right at law as broad as in equity, and vice versa, and this feature is retained by the code.

4. As a declaration must contain all the substance requisite to enable the plaintiff to recover, no amendment of its form would be of any value without a complete cause of action in substance. Hence, in order for a declaration to be amendable in form, a substantial canse of action must appear, otherwise there is not enough to amend by.

5. But when the amendment needed is one of substance itself, "enough to amend by does not mean the same as "enough to be good in substance, its generally the reson why amendment." On the contrary, falling to be good in substance, is generally the reson why amendment in substance, is needed. "Knough to amend by in one respect, though not in another. The code does not make the standard for Amendard programment is an abstance is in this regard, it ment needed and offered. There may be enough to amend by in one respect, though not in another. The code does not make the standard for form and substance the same. In this regard, it has been misconstrued, and the case of Martin v. The Gainesville, J. & Raifroad Co., 78 Ga. 307, based upon such misconstruction, is hereby over-

6. Enough to amend by in matter of substance, 6. Enough to amend by in matter of substance, in aid of an incomplete cause of action, is the least amount of substance in a declar-tion which will serve to show that, according to the original design of the pleader, what is offered to be added rightly belongs to the cause of action which he meant to assert, and that the addition proposed would make the cause of action complete. There must be a plaintiff, a defendant, jurisdiction of the court and facts enough to indicate and would make the cause of action complete. There must be a plaintiff, a defendant, jurisdiction of the court and facts enough to indicate and identify some particular cause of action as the one intended to be declared upon, so as to enable the court to determine whether the facts proposed to be introduced by the amendment are part and parcel of that same cause. Any amendment whatever which, if allowed, would leave the cause of action incomplete should be rejected.

7. Under the code, a declaration which has all the requisites to make it good and sufficient in substance, save that it omits to allege some fact sesential to raise the auty involved in the cause of action which the pleader evidently intended to lectare upon, is amendable by supplying the omitted fact at any stage of the case. Thus, where the duty claimed was the duty of forbearing to obstruct a sewer pipe which conveyed waste water from the plaintiff's premises and discharged the same on the defendant's land, the declaration was amendable by alleging an easement subjecting his land to the burden of receiving the water so discharged. Also, in an action by a mother suing for the homicide of her son, where the fact omitted from the declaration was that she was dependent upon him for a support, the declaration was amendable by alleging that fact.

8. Where two railway companies, each under the declaration was amendable by alleging that fact.

8. Where two railway companies, each under its own franchise, use the track of one of them in common, at a terminal point, the one owning the track is responsible for the consequences of its negligence in failing to render harmless to the employes of the other company a low bridge spanning the track, if the duty of taking proper precautions for the purpose was upon it and it alone. The mother of an employe of the other company, if otherwise in a situation to sue, may recover for the honlicide of her son, caused by such negligence. In such case, though it be not alleged that the company not owning the track that is, the master of the employe, was ignorant of the danger or of the conditions which caused it, it will not be assumed in deciding upon a demurrer to the declaration that it was negligent in running the train to which the employe was attached when in jured; consequently, the question whether any negligence of that company could be imputed to the employe so as to render him chargeable with the contributory negligence is not now for decision.

1. Where each of two coterminous proprietors recognizes the ownership of the other, and that the fract of each is bounded by that of the other, the ascertainment of the true line between them fixes the extent of their respective tracts.

2. If one by mistake purchases a strip of land from the other which really belongs to himself, though he acquire actual possession by reason of his purchase, he is not bound to surrender the possession in order to avoid paying the purchase money, if the transaction was by mutual mistake, or if it was by mistake of the purchaser and fraud on the part of the vendor.

3. The rule that transactions in the sale and purchase of land which were evidenced by writing are not to be proved by parel without first accounting for the absence of the writing, applies in this case.

4. The relevancy of possession, etc., of another tract by a third person is not apparent. There was no error in denying a new trial on any of the grounds set forth in the motion. Judgment affirmed. Broyles & Sons, for plaintiff. Simmons & Corrigan, for defendant.

Where a declaration against a common carrier is susceptible of being construed equally as an action upon contract or an action of tort based upon an alleged violation of a public duty by the carrier. and the same is not demurred to, the plaintiff at the trial may, at his option, elect to treat it as either species of action.

2. The superior court of the county in which delivery was made to the common carrier, and in which the violation of the carrier's duty commenced, has jurisdiction of the action, although the tort may have been only partially completed in that councy, and its full completion took place in another county.

3. That the name of a partnership was inverted in making a written contract, will not defeat an action brought in tort against the carrier by the partnership in its proper name.

4. If the live stock delivered to the carrier consisted of both cattle and hegs, it is not a material variance that they are described in the written contract as one carload of cattle, the action being treated as one of tort, and not as founded upon the contract.

5. There was no error in denying a nonsult, nor the contract.

5. There was no error in denying a nonsuit, nor in overruling the motion for a new trial.

Judgment affirmed.

E. M. Mitchell, contra.

Sibley v. authal Reserve Fund Life Association.
Contracts. Practice, Amendment. Before Judge
Van Epps. City court of Atlanta.
1. Under the contract declared upon, the insurantae company did not obligate itself unconditionally to open the states of Florida and Mississippi to the plaintiff for his operations as general agent of the company, nor was there any guarantee that such states were open to him at the time the contract was made. The plaintiff having failed to secure husiness to the amount of $56,000 per month in the state of Georgia, the company had a right to discontinue his services and terminate the contract.

2. An amendment to the declaration which was offered at the time of hearing a demurrer to the declaration, and disallowed by the court, is no part of the record, and can only come to the supreme court by being set out in the bill of exceptions or annexed to the same as an exhibit duly authomicated.

ton superior court.

1. There was no error in failing to give any of the requests for instruction, the court having covered the same by the general charge in so far as they were legal and appropriate.

2. The charge as a whole was correct, and covered all substantial questions involved in the case.

ase.

3. The verdict was not warranted by the evidence under the law, there being no sufficient ground for imputing to the defendant any negligence whatever in the inhær of furnishing to the plaintiff an unfit instrument for the work in hand, but the evidence showing, on the contrary, that he plaintiff did not wait to have furnished to him such an instrument as the superintendent considered suitable and promised to furnish.

Clark v. Empire Lumber Co. Evidence. Practice. Husband and wife. Lis pendens. Charge of court. Levy. Before Judge Marshall J. Clarke. Fuiton superior court.

1. The books of tax returns in the office of the comptroller general are of equal rank as evidence with those in the proper offices of the comptroller general are of equal rank as evidence with those in the proper offices of the comptroller general touching the contents of such books is no less admissible than the certificate of the proper county officer would be.

2. Objection to evidence which does not appear to have been presented in the court below will not be passed upon by the supreme court.

3. The evidence showing that land conveyed to a wife by a third person was paid for by her husband, and there being no evidence of any consideration atvanced by her to the husband, the transaction is a gift from him to her.

4. After seizure of the land as his property by virtue of an attachment against him, a joint deed from the husband and wife to a purchaser from them is affected by the doctrine of his pendens, and will not prevail over the llen of the attachment.

5. Where there is no evidence of any purchase sand will not prevail over the first of the attachment.

5. Where there is no evidence of any purchase by the wife from the husband, it is not error to omit or deny instructions on that subject in charging the jury.

6. Where the description in the levy of the attachment is returned by the officer is otherwise definite, the omission to set out the number of feet in the frontage of the premises on a certain street will not prevent the doctrine of its pendens from applying to one who purchases the same pending the levy.

Cox v. Richmond & Danville Railroad Co.; Moseley v. same; Perkins v. same. Actions. Amendment. Railroads. Damages. Before Judge Van Epps. City court of Atlanta.

1. A declaration sounding in tort, against a railroad company for violation of its duty as a common carrier, is not amendable by converting it in whole or in part into an action upon contract to whole of in part into an action upon contract to carry.

2. Where the declaration sets forth a cause of action and lays damages in general terms, it is not vitiated by a clause which sets up that "the entire injury is to her peace, happiness and feelings," although this theory of the injury be incorrect. The action is maintainable for the real injury embraced in the facts set out in the declaration.

1. If not in all cases whatsoever, certainly in any case admitting of doubt, the question of rendering a judgment by the superior court without a jury is one not involving jurisdiction, but the proper exercise of jurisdiction, and the improper decision of it is mere error and will not render the judgment void.

2. A joint action against the maker and endorsers of a promissory note is a civil case founded on an unconditional contract in writing; and where no issuable defense is filed under oath of affirmation, the court may render judgment thereon against all of the defendants without the verdict of a jury.

affirmation, the court may render judgment thereon against all of the defendants without the verdict of a jury.

3. Where the maker of a promissory note executes a mortgage to secure the same, and in the mortgage stipulates for the payment of all expenses of collection, including io per cent attorneys' fees, and declares as a part of the mortgage deed that itmay be foreclosed for such expenses and attorneys' fees together with the principal and interest of the note, and a judgment of foreclosure is afterwards rendered accordingly, and judgment upon the note against the maker and indorsers is also rendered in a proper action, and afterwards the indorsers waive in writing any objection to the stipulation in the mortgage as to actorneys' fees, such waiver is a ratification by them of the maker's act in giving the mortgage, and they cannot afterwards insist that the judgment of foreclosure shall not operate against them as conclusive upon the question of the creditor's right to appropriate a sufficient amount of the proceeds of the mortgaged property to the payment of such fees.

court. Before Judge Marshail J. Clarke. Fulton superior court.

I. Where the employe whose business it was to place a stool used for the purpose of assisting lady passengers to enter the train was not produced or accounted for, there was no error in rejecting evidence that it was the custom and habit of the company to have the stool in its proper place up to the time of the starting of the train, there being positive evidence in behalf of the plantiff that it was out of place when he was injured, and only negative evidence to the contrary in behalf of the defendant.

2. It not appearing that the witness who would ordinarily know the fact in question, and who was one of the employee of the company at the time the cause of action arose, was inaccessible, or that the defendant was ready to produce him, there was no error in calling attention to his absence or nonproduction, in charging the jury, as a fact to be considered by them in connection with the case.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, October 19.—The stock market today

NEW YORK. October 18.—The stock market today beemed almost entirely given over to the professionals, and the volume of business was the smallest for any full day for many weeks. There was in the main a firmer tone to the dealings, c used by an attempt to cover a portion of the outstanding shorts; but the rapidity with which prices recovered under this light atimulus was the occasion of a cessation of such efforts until a more favorable time. Advices from the Argentine Republic were considered unfavorable this morning, and foreigners were again sellers of American stocks, presumably to cover the losses incurred in stocks, presumably to cover the losses incurred in such investments. Traders were still bearishly in slined, and helped along the downward movement be gun by foreign sales at the opening; but when the lat-ter ceased the desire to close deals on the short side to purchases by local operators, which had the effect of wiping out all the early losses, with something in addition in a few cases. The dealings were thing in addition in a few cases. The dealings were, more than usual of late, restricted to the leading thares, aithough the trading reached a large number of stocks for so dull a day. The impossibility of covering any line of stocks in so dull a market, with prices responding so sharply to the buying, induced a cessation of the efforts to cover in the last hour, and the prices again yielded. The general list moved within the narrowest limits, but a few specialties showed large fluctuations. Among these a drop of 3 per cent In Pullman was noticeable, and reports of an issue of large fluctuations. Among these a drop of 3 per cent in Pullman was noticeable, and reports of an issue of bonds by Pacific Mail knocked that stock off 1%, only a portion of which was afterward recovered. On the other hand, the Vanderblits were again noticeably strong, and New York Central again reached 112, while the others, including Canada Southern, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis, and Nickel-Plate showed marked strength, aiding the rally in the general list. Adams Express retired still further as a consequence of the late disclosures and touched 134, a consequence of the late disclosures and touched 134, a decline of about 12 per cent from where it stood before the Hoev affair was made public. The changes in the the Hoey affair was made public. The changes in the active shares, however, were generally for fractional amounts only, and the market finally closed dull and barely steady at some concessions from the opening prices, which were from \(\frac{1}{2} \) to \(\frac{1}{2} \) per cent below the finals of Saturday. Sales of listed stocks, 157,000 prices, which were from 1 to 4 per cent below the finals of Saturday. Sales of listed stocks, 157,000 shares; unlisted, 3,000.

Cahn & Co.'s Stock Letter.

By Private Wire to Youngblood & Hans. NEW YORK, October 19.—London was lower for Americans, and the arbitrage sold about seven thousand shares. The market was very duli and the selling by Europe bad a marked effect on the sentiment of the street. An effort was made to rally prices, and active stocks were bid up 1/2 per cent all round, but in the late dealings, the market sold off quickly, prices classing near the lowest of the day. Tradition to closing near the lowest of the day. Trading limited, and room traders are the factors. It see as if Gould was again preparing for a move on the ber fully dull that it is dangerous to sell any large lines of stocks short. Nevertheless, we think the public favors lower prices. A great deal depends on the course of the Loudon market, and traders will do well

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular. NEW YORK, October 19—[Special.]—Liverpool today was 4 points lower, closing barely steady. Spot sales are 8,000 bales. At 2 o'clock this market was 14 points below Saturday's opening. January opened at 9,416 are 8,000 bales. At 2 o'clock this market was 14 points below Saturday's opening. January opened at 9.41@ 9.42, declined to 8.29 on big receipts and has since recovered about a points. The total receipts of cotton at the ports today will probably be not less than 80,000 bales. The movement continues in excess of all precedent, and is for the present the controlling influence. Until it lets up, the weakness of the southern spot markets is likely to effect a further decline here, which would no doubt be sharper were it not that the demand from the public for futures at prices which look attractively cheap continues to absorb a large quantity of the cott, a sold here. This demand is more general than we have ever known it, originating in a large measure with that portion of the cotton trade generally distinguished for its conservatism and careful observation. This would seem to be the most conclusive evidence of the theory so often advanced, that the present receipts are no criterion of the crop unless, indeed, they are corroborative of small crop estimates. The preliminary average of some 3.855 crop guesses, in answer to our circular up to 3 p. m., October 13, is naswer to our circular up to 3 p. m., October 13, is 7.544,321. This is subject to correction. Since 2 o'clock the market has been rather steadler, closing finally ,541,321. This is subject to correction. Since 2 o'clock he market has been rather steadier, closing finally bout a points over the lowest figures touched. The rading has been on an enormus scale, and there has loubtless been a considerable liquidation of the less the most part passed into stronger hands, and its trans-ter should for the present at least steady the market. Lehman Bros.' Cotton Letter.

te wire to Youngblood & Haas. YORK, October 19—The receipts at the ports vere again beyond all expectations, aggregating 83,603 making the crop movement thus far this week beles ahead of what it was last week, in addiion to which estimates received from New Orleans aming 20,000 bales for tomorrow, assisted in the de ression, and under the influence of this great presare it is not surprising that values have yielded: Our Liverpool friends today have cabled: "It is hard to find buyers for the moment," which just about covers find buyers for the moment," which just about covers the point here, the expected heavy receipts making even those who, under ordinary eircumstances, might feel inclined to buy now feel timid. Thusit is that there is little support, while with every decline stop orders come to hand and materially assist in the weakness. Cotton, we believe, is very reasonable at present prices, notwithstanding the fact that, with a continuance of the present enormous movement, chances do favor lower prices temporarily.

THE CHICAGO MARKET. Features of the Speculative Movement in CHICAGO, October 19 .- The bears in wheat had CHICAGO, October 19.—The bears in wheat had the best of the situation today, and they improved their opportunity to further depress prices. In this they were assisted by the longs, who were strongly inclined to throw over their holdings for fear of further loss with the selling pressure started at the tap of the bell and continued throughout most of the session. At the bottom there was some covering, which caused a slight 1slip, but the market apain eased off and held tolerably steady. December, which closed Saturday at $7\c_0$, opened at $7\c_0$, touched $7\c_0$, then sold off to $6\c_0$, rallied to $6\c_0$, touched $9\c_0$, exacted to $6\c_0$, went off to $9\c_0$, advanced to $6\c_0$, which to $6\c_0$, on an increase in the visible supply, rallied and closed at $6\c_0$.

Corn was quiet but generally weak, while the weak sness in wheat was the bearish factor. Offerings were liberal with very little demand, and trade was slow with weakness the rule. Long corn came out freely, short selling was free. November opened at $47\c_0$, and sagged off to $47\c_0$, ched duffing the last hour sold up sharply off to 47%c, but during the last hour sold up sharply on a heavy decrease in the visible supply, going to sice, weakened to 4814c, but strengthened again an losed at 48%c

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter. By Private Wire to Youngblood & Haas. CHICAGO, October 19.—Under the influence of lower abies and larger receipts wheat suffered a decline of boot 1e per bushel. Late Saturday and during the creater portion of today there has been good, liberal uying for export. Should this continue, it may check my further decline at present. It is approaching the season of the year when foreign reights are likely to advance, and unless there is orresponding advance in grain abroad, the tenden-vill be to depress our market. The closing was n ery strong and we would not be surprised to see veak opening tomorrow.

Corn was active, and during the fore part of the sesion lower, but the demand for sample, cash and car ion ower, but the demend for sample, cash and car ots was very good, causing rather a strong market for all the near futures. May was neg ected. Oats firm. Cash and sample lots all taken at full

RELICS OF REX,

The Famous Hunter Who Had Many Thrilling Adventures.

CLOTHED IN THE SKINS OF WILD BEASTS

He Roamed the Woods, Where He Was Lord and Master-Carving an Alligator.

LUMPKIN, Ga., October 19.—[Special.]— Hanging up among the articles of virtu in The Independent office is a vest made of the dressed skin of the rattlesnake, which was worn some years ago by Rex Caraway, of this place. Rex was formerly a citizen of Florida, and while he was familiarizing himself with the topography of that state he cultivated a taste for the bizarre in dress.

The snake that furnished the skin for the vest was nineteen feet long and had twentyseven rattles. Rex killed the snake after a desperate battle, in which he nearly lost his desperate backe, in which he check and tough dressed skin of the noble stag, whose antiers presented a forest of sharp points, the side seams fringed with thougs, from each of which depended an alligator tooth brightly polished; his coat was made of the skin of a black bear slain by him with a dirk in mortal combat; a raccoon furnished the skin for his cap, from which dangled behind the ringed, streaked tail; the mailed alligator provided his thick waterproof boots from his impenetrable hide; his shot and ammunition pouch was made of waterproof boots from his impenetrable hide; his shot and ammunition pouch was made of otter skin, with the soft, downy and waterproof fur outside. And ever in this wild and lonely waste, where the ferm and nature roamed at will, and where the skilled hunter's most cautious step was ever attended with imminent peril, Rex did not lose his love for the beautiful and orways wasterly in dress. His crayet, was made of namental in dress. His cravat was made of deftly woven feathers of the rare and beautiful pink curlew, while his shirt was made of the soft dressed skin of the young doe. When thus clad and armed with a forty-four Winchester and a buckhorn-handled dirk, this same flex made a picturesque figure while fearlessly invading the lair of the Florida back bear, or that of the dangerous American panther.

But he has reformed, lost his love for the wild and venturesome features of pioneer life, and has become the model of a quiet and peaceful citizen. To see him quietly walking the streets no one would suppose he had shared the wigwam with the red man and outdid him in daring and cunning prowess; that he had leaped upon the back of a twelve-foot alligator and carved him to death with a bowle knife. But he does not like to talk about these things now.

Quite a Curiosity.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., October 19.—[Special.]
Colonel M. W. Hall, of this city, has a curiosity which has a history, part of which will be especially interesting. The curiosity is in the shape of a smail bill, about 2x4 inches in size, 6\frac{1}{2} cents in value, dated Greensboro, Ga., 1800, and signed by D. & B. Sanford. Mr. D. Sanford was the father of Hon. D. B. Sanford, of this city, and B. Sanford was a brother of D. Sanford, and "our Dan Sanford" was named for the two, father and uncle, taking both their initials, D. and B. In 1800 D. & B. Sanford were among the largest and most important business men of Georgia, and were doing business in Greensboro, which was then in Baldwin county. Baidwin being at that time a very large county, and afterwards was divided into Baldwin, Putnam, Morgan, Jasper, and some other one of the near counties.

The tirm also had a branch store at what is known as Clear Island, near this city, where they carried on considerable traffic and bartering with the Cherokee and other Indian tribes, who then inhabited this and adjoining coun-

TRINITY LEAGUE.

Let Every Member Be Out Tonight-An Invitation.

Invitation.

The regular meeting of the Young People's Christian League, of Trinity church, will be held tonight, at 7:20 o'clock. Every member is urgently requested to be present. This is the season for work, and truly the "harvest is great." A cordial invitation is extended to all the young people's societies of the different churches to attend, and all young people generally.

Everybody welcome.

Invalid mothers, especially nursing mothers, can avoid that debilitating, languid feeling, and look well and hearty instead of peaked and thin, if they will only use the genuine Johann Hoff's Malt Extract. The effect is most excellent, as not only the breast of the mother, but also the milk organs are strengthened. This extract causes the secretion of milk to increase, so that even feeble women need entertain no apprehensions that milk will be lacking for the child. The entire nutrition of the body is improved.

But by all means avoid counterfeits. See that "Johann Hoff's" signature is on each bottle. The medical tracernity of the world recommends "Johann Hoff's Malt Extract." Eisner & Mendelson Co., Sole Agents, 6 Barclay St., New York.

Was a Spanish Province.

Brunswick, Ga., October 19.—[Special.]—
Mention was made a few days since of an old indictment found by a grand jury of Glynn county in the year 1838. Mr. W. A. Berrie, the father of Sheriff W. H. Berrie, is the only surviving member of that grand jury. Mr. Berrie is something over eighty-six years old, and preserves his physical and intellectual powers to a remarkable degree. He was born in Florida in 1805, while that was still a Spanish province, and has lived in Glynn county since 1830.

Mr. Berry has many interesting remembrances of the olden times of Glynn county and of Brunswick, having been associated more or less intimately with all the old inhabitants. The comrades of his youth are gone, but he abides amongst us, and The Times hopes may do so for years to come.

Cotton by the Wholesale. Cotton by the Wholesale.

Cordele, Ga., October 19.—[Special.]—Mr. John Dowdy, who lives near Cordele, has gathered this year thirty-three bales of cotton from a two-horse farm, and Mr. R. E. Whichett, who lives within a mile of Cordele, has already picked thirteen bales of cotton from a twelve-acre field. The crop is now about gathered. The low price of cotton will not affect our farmers any more this year.

Our fall trade has been unprecedentedly large. So much so we determined to buy new stocks for our Dress Goods and Carpet Departments and to fill in all other classes of goods. For this purpose, Mr. Johnson and Mr. DuBose are both in New York, and we are opening daily new styles in Dress Goods and Carpets.

NOVELTIES IN PARISIAN

This week is the time to see such imported suits as have never before been shown to the southern trade, Strikingly stylish in elegant new designs, with shadings grouped in wonderful symmetry and harmony. These magnificent works of art will not remain long, and we can't duplicate. It would not be right if we could, as we have only one suit of each, and ladies do not care to have uniforms. Come this week and see the most su perbly elegant goods of the season. All other departments full. Our prices are right.

MORE WATER

Will Be Given the Present Waterworks Supply.

IS TO BEGIN AT ONCE.

The General Council Meets in Regular Session and Disposes of Business in a Rush.

Atlanta's present water supply is to be augmented at once. The work will be actually begun today.

The general council did little yesterday, spart from providing for an immediate supply of water to carry the city over until the new waterworks can be constructed. When the body met every member, except Mr. Broyles and Mr. Murphey, was present.

"I suggest," said Mr. Hendrix, as Mayor Pro Tem. Middlebrooks called the body to order, "as we meet this morning at an unusual hour and are to meet again tomorrow after noon that we transact only such business as is absolutely necessary in order that we may

"Probably it would be well, "said Mayor Pro. Tem Middlebrooks, "to have the mayor"

The call was read. It explained that the mayor and general council had been invited to attend the opening exercises of the Piedmont exposition and as that would conflict with the usual hour of meeting the morning session had "Now I move." said Mr. Hendrix, "that we adjourn until half-past 2 o'clock tomorrow." "But there is a matter of vital importance before us," said Mr. Hutchison. - "The water supply has run alarmingly low and we must do something to give relief. Then, too, one of the contracts for pipe for the new waterworks needs our attention. The entire water board, however, is present, and can explain the situation fully."

Howell Erwin, president of the water board, was given the floor. Mr. Erwin stated that the board, in awarding the contract for pipe for the new waterworks, had done so subject to the ratification of the bonds at the approaching municipal election. In the contract the option was made too short, and as it was at to expire the board wanted the general council to confirm the contract. "I have here the contract," said Mr. Rice, "and I suggest that the clerk read it and we can then act upon it."

The contract with the Howard-Harrison Iron Company, of Bessemer, Ala., was then read by Clerk Woodward and a resolution adopting it was adopted.

Judge Hillyer, of the water board, called the attention of the council to the present condition of the water supply.

"Atlanta was never in such a dangerous situation before," said he. "If we don't get some relief, rain or otherwise, we won't have any water at all." Mr. Hutchison presented a resolution author-Izing the expenditure of $5,000 in securing and providing an additional supply of water for the present waterworks. "I think," said Mr. Woodward, "that we passed up an amount the first of this year to increase the supply. Now do we want more? "The money has never been expended," said Judge Hillyer.

"I only ask for information," replied Mr. Woodward. "I want to know the true situation. That's all. If the waterworks must be amended I'm for the amendment."

amended I'm for the amendment."

"I am, too," said Mr. Rice, "but our financial condition just now is rather peculiar.
Our money is pretty well spent,"

"In reply to Mr. Woodward I'd like to say," declared Judge Hillyer, "that the money he spoke of has never been expended. The money was appropriated, and when we went to work to make the increased supply Mr. Poole wanted two thousand or three thousand dollars for the privilege of taking. thousand dollars for the privilege of taking water from his pond. At that time our water supply was never more abundant. We had millions of gallons of it, and would not agree to his terms. Since then, though, the supply to his terms. Since then, though, the supply has gone down."

Judge Hillyer declared that the dånger of a water famine was pressing and real, and thought the best policy was to deal candidly with the people and tell them the plain truth about it.

"For my own part," he said, "I had foreseen this danger, and had been uring the building of new works for years past, and have again and again called public attention to it; and now that the ghost has really come, I am in condition to say with the poet:

"Never shake your gory locks at me:

'Never shake your gory locks at me; Thou canst not say I did it.'

"Never shake your gory locks at me;

Thou canst not say I did it."

"However, the very energetic measures taken on Saturday and today would meet the present danger in time But it is due to truth to say all we can do at the o.d works is to pump a limited amount from another small creek of questionable quality of water. A mere temporary expedient. Real relief will come only from the new works for which the water board and city council have already ordered the engines and the pipe. When the new waterworks are done our city will have waterworks equal to any in the country. But it will be a year and a half before the new works are finished; It is greatly to be hope; that the people will elect members of council who are piedged to the most energetic prosecution of the work.

"Much importance must be attached to the necessity of flushing the sewers about which we hear so much. My plan is when we cot the new works, to not merely open a few hydrants here and there, but to put syphons in the thirty odd old cisterns already built and so adjusted as third, say 10,000 gallons of the water in each of them, may be made to rush through a ten-inch pipe into the nearest sewer, and thus have a great volume of water to literally flood the sewer in a way that will amount to something. No system of flushing sewers can be effectual without flush tanks. The existing old cisterns furnish Atlanta with the very best of flush tasks already made to hand. Of course the cisterns would not be emptied by this process, but would constantly fill up again from pipes adjusted and working automatically, as long as the absence of rain made flushing necessary.

"But this is only one of the benefits to accrue from the new works. The truth is sewers, and tire engines, and streets and schools, and even houses, and homes are worth but little without water, and if the merey of a kind Providence shall bless the measures taken, and avert calantity until the wither rains set in, the present danger will have proved a blessing, since it must necessarily show t unless we have more and better water, and that speedily.

"We need the water," said Mr. Turner, and we must have it. We'll find some way to raise this $5,000."

"Let's have the water, money or no money," said Mr. Hulsey.

"That's what I say," echoed Mr. McBride.

"Atlanta will find the way to pay the bill," said Mr. Handriv.

"Atlanta will find the way to pay the bill," said Mr. Hendrix.

The resolution was adopted, and immediately another was introduced by Mr. Hutchison appointing Mr. J. L. Harrison and Mr. Harry Krouse assessors to condemn any land necessary to reach the requisite water supply. Immediately after the council adjourned, the heart of adjance convened expenses. the board of aldermen convened concurred in

Then Mayor Hemphill approved the con-Then Mayor Hemphill approved the contract with the Bessemer company and the Hutchison resolution.

The water coard then met and after a consultation with Superintendent Richards, and City Engineer Ciayton ordered by telegraph the pipe and machinery necessary to increase the present water supply.

This morning the superintendent and engineer will take the field and search and survey the route for the new supply.

Before the week is out the pipe laying will begin.

THE NIGHT SCHOOL

Opens Last Evening.

The night school of the Young Men's Christian Association opened last evening. The beginning of this winter course of instruction was, very aging and it gives indications of ac encouraging and it gives indications of accomplishing much good.

There will be two sessions. The first closes on December 23d. The second opens the second week of January and will conclude on April 1st. To every member of the association—and anybody can become one whose moral character is good—this school is open without any charge at all.

There will be desert in persenting prockless.

There will be classes in penmanship, bookkeep ing, mechanical drawing, stenography, music and physiology. Each will be held twice a week. The rogramme is:
Monday evening-Music, bookkeeping, penmanship and physiology.

Tuesday—Mechanical drawing and stenography.

Wednesday—Penmanship and bookkeeping.

Thursday—Stenography and mechanical draw-

Friday-Music

Saturday-Physiology.
The various instructors will be: Professor of bookkeeping and penmanship, Professor Smith, of Goldsmith & Sullivan's Business college; of stenography, Mr. J. L. Driscoll; of music, Professor B. C. Davis, teacher in the public schools; of physiology, Dr. J. C. Elsom, physical director of the association; of mechanical drawing, Mr. D. B. Ovid, professor of drawing at the technological technological.

This presents a splendid corps of teachers, and they will undoubtedly make the course a popular one.

It has been suggested that these classes will conflict with the night school. When asked about this yesterday, Mr. C. A. Licklider laughed. about this yesterday, Mr. C. A. License, laughed.

"Why," said he, "if anything, it will assist the school. No one can enter these classes under eighteen years of age, while most of those who attend the night school are below that age. Now, I think that this will stimulate the attendance there. Those who attend our classes work during the day. It is just so with the night school. I think many boys will be induced to take instruction there, so as to be able afterwards to take the business branches at the association."
